LANDON AND BORAH HARMONY SOUGHT

HOOVER CLAIMS HE COMES JUST TO GIVE SPEECH

Head of California Delegation Says Former President Will Not Stampede Parley

FOLLOWED BY BIG CROWDS

Tells Group of Delegates on Arrival You've Got To Save the Nation Now

By WILLIAM S. ARDERY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND June 10—Pausing a moment in his greetings to a group of admirers Herbert Hoover told newsmen today he was a delegate to the Republican national convention for one purpose—to make a speech.

The statement was in reply to a question as to whether the former President planned conferences with leaders on the twin controversies of candidates and platform build

Mr Hoover shook hands with Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan in the hotel lobby but there was no discussion of these issues

Greeted at the train by several thousand well wishers the former President made his way through cheering lines of spectators to his hotel shortly after Chester R Rowell chairman of the California delegation had said that Hoover did not plan to seek to stampede the convention with a self seeking speech

After a public handshaking half hour at headquarters of the California delegation Hoover went to his room for a brief rest But the throng followed him and it was necessary for Lawrence Richey his secretary to arrange a second reception

At this Hoover smiled jovially exchanged pleasantries with old friends and posed for photographers

To several of the delegates he remarked smiling but in a serious tone You've got to save the nation now

One delegate was introduced to Mr Hoover merely as a Republican Laughing the gray haired former chief executive replied If he's a Republican I'm for him

Hoover asked other friends personal questions about what they had been doing whether their wives were along and about their sons

HOOVER TO SPEAK

An address by former President Herbert Hoover will be the outstanding feature of the convention program tonight. Mr Hoover will speak following the opening of the session at 8 o'clock with prayer by Rabbi Louis Wolsey congregation Rodeph Shalmon Philadelphia.

The resolutions committee which was to have reported tonight on the party platform will not be able to report because an agreement has not been reached on the final wording of the document.

After Hoover's speech the convention will adjourn until Thursday at 11 a. m

STUDY SPECIAL LEVY FOR WPA

Civic Committee Meets With City Officials To Discuss Possibility of Election

DECISION IS DUE SOON

Proposal Made To Increase Rate To Return Firemen and Policemen

The second step toward promotion of a special city election on a tax levy to raise the city's share of funds for the WPA program here was taken late yesterday when a committee of citizens conferred with Mayor F C Smith and Robert H. Stief chairman of the finance committee of council to discuss the matter

It was suggested that the citizens committee formed to solve the WPA problem take steps to sound out voters regarding their attitude toward a tax levy The committee is expected to decide within the next day or two what method it will use to gather expressions of opinion among voters

It also was suggested at the conference yesterday that if such a levy is to be considered at a special election it be increased from the proposed two mills to between three and four mills to include funds to bring the fire and police departments back to full strength The possibility that local insurance rates will be increased because of th inadequately manned fire department was pointed out.

Mayor Smith and Councilman Stief said they would not oppose initiation of a special election according to committee members and they expressed an opinion that council would act favorably on a resolution calling for the election should petitions for it with the proper number of signatures be presented

R T Lewis chairman of the committee that called on the mayor was out of the city today but it is expected that the 28 members of the citizens WPA committee will meet within a few days to decide whether the proposal for a special election will be considered further The suggestion was made by Relief Director John Abel at a meeting of the committee Monday night.

Present at yesterday's conference in addition to the mayor and Mr Stief were R T Lewis John Abel A W Kette W D Brown L Bush and Wilfred Schaffner Earl Smith and F E Guthery also members of the committee were unable to be present.

PLATFORM ROW MAY PROLONG G. O. P. SESSION

Bitter Dispute Rages Over Money, Farm and Foreign Affairs Policies

CANNOT REPORT TONIGHT

Easterners Don't Approve of Monetary Stand Landon's Backers Demand

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND June 10—A bitter platform dispute centering on the monetary farm and foreign affairs planks threatened today to hold the Republican national convention in session until Saturday

The drafting subcommittee of the resolutions committee recessed early today without having made any headway on a 2000 word states rights platform presented by the dominant Landon forces

Tired members were called back into session again this morning after only a few hours sleep but they forecast the committee would not be ready to report tonight as scheduled

Easterners Dissatisfied

Authoritative sources said powerful eastern members of the platform subcommittee were not satisfied with the monetary plank offered by those supporting Gov Alf M Landon of Kansas for the presidential nomination There were strong hints of a minority report.

Trouble also was forecast by committee members in reaching an agreement on the farm and foreign affairs planks but the long threatening conflict over a proposal for a constitutional amendment to permit state legislation on minimum wages seemed to be ebbing

Conciliatory language on the minimum wage issue seemed to have dissipated opposition from the more conservative committee members

While to See Borah

Speculation was aroused by a remark from William Allen White chief Landon representative on the subcommittee that he hoped to see Sen Borah of Idaho main worry of the platform drafters Rumors had been spread around all day that Borah would cooperate with the Landon forces in writing the platform

But other subcommittee members denied that the negotiations with Borah had anything to do with the recess

White hinted there was no plan in the Landon camp for a plank pledging restoration of the gold standard At the same time the Emporia editor remarked that he himself was an old fashioned man in favor of a straight gold standard

Want Straight Gold Base

It was the failure to declare for a straight gold standard which apparently failed to please the easterners on the subcommittee But the platform makers had a wide range of sentiment on this issue to reconcile

On one hand was Frank Knox the Illinois candidate for the presidential nomination who declared yesterday for a dollar exchangeable in gold On the other was Borah demanding managed currency and hostile to the gold standard

The balance of the platform presented by the Landon leaders was said to have a strong states rights tinge This theory was said to run through the planks on agriculture social security the minimum wage and relief

New Busses And Fare Cut Proposed for City Lines

Rapid Transit Company Asks Council for Franchise Extension; Plans Straight 5 Cent Charge.

A straight five-cent bus fare for Marion residents with a three-cent charge for children between 6 and 12 years of age and replacement of present equipment with new coaches is proposed by Marion Rapid Transit, Inc In a communication to the franchise and ordinance committee of council asking for an extension of its franchise

Rates now in effect are seven cents for single fare or three tokens for 15 cents The present charge for children is five cents straight

The rate proposed by the company is the lowest in its eight-year history

The company's communication to the council committee also outlines plans to purchase the garage on North State street it now occupies on a rental basis

Ray Maag owner of the company said this morning the proposed change in bus rates replacement of equipment and purchase of the garage would not be justified unless the city grants a 10 or 15 year extension of the company's franchise which will expire in 1938

Letter to Council

In his letter to the council committee he said in part When we first started operation in Marion we figured our initial equipment to pay for itself in three years and be ready for replacement in five years but due to business conditions beyond our control we find our initial equipment at the end of eight years getting in such a condition that it will be advisable to replace as soon as possible although not quite paid off yet In order to finance new equipment we should have a franchise extension

Hayse Rogers chairman of the franchise and ordinance committee said today he expects to call a meeting of the committee some night this week to consider the company's proposal

Mr Maag said he hopes to replace two of the five city busses next fall and possibly another two in the winter months with 20-passenger Buick coaches powered with six cylinder motors The new coaches would be streamlined and the drivers seat and space for passenger seats extend out over the motor eliminating the conventional projected hood and radiator They would be more attractive more maneuverable and more economical to operate than the present coaches he said Each new coach would weigh approximately 3000 pounds less than those now in use he said

No Route Change

Mr Maag said no changes in routes or in the number of busses in operation is contemplated in the company's program

He pointed out that the company's original program to replace equipment had been delayed three years because of business conditions, and that the cost of repair parts and gasoline and oil for the present busses has increased rapidly in recent months as a result of the delay

The transit company inaugurated city bus service in 1922 charging 10 cents a single fare three tokens for 25 cents seven for 50 cents and 15 for $1 This subsequently was modified to the present seven-cent rate for single fares, three tokens for 15 cents

The Radical Socialist organ Ere Nouvelle took a strong stand against the government's measure to shorten labor's hours

COMPROMISE ON TAX BILL SOUGHT TODAY

Conferees Approach Last Hurdle to Adjournment of 74th Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 10—Tackling one of the last barriers to adjournment of an action laden seventy fourth congress conferees sought a compromise today on the stricken tax bill

Indications were that the house conferees of the measure might get run to when the conferees finally submit a bill to the house and senate

It was understood in some quarters that the administration's insistence for high levies on undistributed corporate profits as outlined in the house provisions would be accepted in part at least in place of the low flat tax provided in the bill as it passed the senate

Briefly the chief point of difference among the conferees was this

The house stands back of a graduated tax on undistributed corporate profits ranging up to 42½ per cent.

The senate favors a flat seven per cent tax on undistributed profits

Another point of difference concerned the corporate income tax. The house repealed the existing graduated corporate income tax ranging from 12½ to 15 per cent. The senate increased this tax making it graduated from 18½ per cent to 18 per cent

There was little chance that the bill would be ready when congress meets Monday after a week's adjournment for the Republican national convention

CHIEFTAINS DICKER AS ATTACK RAGES AGAINST NEW DEAL

Snell Installed as Permanent Chairman as Delegates Await Hoover Talk at Tonight's Session.

ORGANIZATION COMPLETE

By EDWARD E. DUFFY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CONVENTION HALL CLEVELAND June 10—The Republican convention rallied for more bombardments of the new deal in its third session at 12 02 p m today pending attempts to bring the Landon and Borah viewpoints together for the presidential campaign It recessed at 1 55 p m

Called for the installation of Rep Bertrand Snell as permanent chairman the delegates first completed their organization by action on reports of the credentials and other lesser committees

As on yesterday, the big moment was left for evening —the valedictory address as titular party leader by ex-President Herbert Hoover, who arrived from Chicago during the morning

Snell and many of the delegates were hoarse long before his heralded assault on Roosevelt policies was completed and they could recess until 8 p m

Snell warned the Republican convention against the dead stone of meaningless political phrases and empty promises.

To do that means defeat in November he said solemnly upon assuming the permanent chairmanship

Few Protests Heard

A few protests against him for the post were heard but those washed out

Snell will preside for the actual ballot tests of claims that the presidential nomination has been foreclosed for Gov Alf M Landon of Kansas possibly late tomorrow

The convention rallied clamorously to his summons for a new crusade to restore to the American people their Constitution and their liberties.

The New Yorker minority leader in the house at Washington appealed for party solidarity as he did in the same role at Chicago four years ago

Inviting support from anti new deal Democrats, he went farther than did Sen Steiwer in the keynote last night by intimating Democrats could expect cabinet representation—if the Republicans win in November

Steiwer was given an ovation as he relinquished the temporary chairmanship to Snell Talk about the fat westerner for second place on the ticket persisted but some easterners did not want their section left out

East West Differences

East west differences also entangled the worn but grim platform writers The age-old monetary and post war farm questions gave the principal trouble Satisfactory language apparently was found to take care of the minimum wage matter

Upon Snell's conclusion the program was clear until 8 p m when former President Hoover will address the convention After that debate on the platform was scheduled but there was some doubt whether the document would be completed in time

Sen Steiwer of Oregon widely discussed for the vice presidential nomination was delayed until 12 02 p m in turning over the rostrum to Snell

Many Rise Late

Many of the committee members and party goers were late risers

Although Snell headlined the formal program, a conference between Borah and William Allen White of Kansas and the plans of former President Herbert Hoover were

CONVENTION HALL, CLEVELAND June 10 — Taking the permanent chairmanship Rep Bertrand Snell of New York appealed to the Republican convention today to sink its differences and unite to restore the government to the people"

In a burning prelude to the address tonight by former President Herbert Hoover the Republican leader of the house imputed betrayal of platform pledges to the new deal He charged "reckless squandering retardation of recovery and violation of constitutional liberties under "this demoralizing reign of incompetence"

I hear today America's earnest prayer of deliverance," he said.

Republicanism he praised as a "great heritage—a political force which personifies the deeply rooted American instinct for law and order, for true social security and the square deal, for a practical and workable system of government."

Snell pledged the party to "the

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 10—Pennsylvania's powerful delegation of 75 cast 50 votes for Alf M. Landon today in the first of a series of vital state caucuses on the Republican presidential nomination.

Almost simultaneously, Arizona pledged its six and Puerto Rico its two votes to the Kansas governor, while John E. Jackson, national committeeman, said Louisiana's 12 votes would be Landon's.

Scheduled to caucus during the day was New York's huge block of 90 delegates, 86 of whom have announced for Landon After a precaucus poll, Landonites claimed at least 56 of New York's ballots

California's 44 uninstructed delegates met, recessed to greet Herbert Hoover and postponed until after the former President's speech tonight any decision on presidential candidates

Thomas Meagher, member of a committee which has been studying qualifications of various candidates, told the west coast group he had found "no basis for the hysteria around here that says there is going to be a Landon landslide"

In the Pennsylvania vote, Senator Borah of Idaho received 12 and other candidates as follows: Steiwer, 4; Knox 3; Dickinson 3 and Vandenberg 1. Eight delegates indicated they would vote for Landon on the second ballot One delegate was absent.

In the Pennsylvania poll former Senator David Reed voted for Senator Steiwer of Oregon, while Senator James J. Davis voted for Borah Joseph R. Grundy, former senator and leader of Pennsylvania manufacturing interests, cast his ballot for Landon

COURT NEWS

HOLC Suits Filed

Two more foreclosure actions have been started in common pleas court against borrowers from the Home Owners Loan Corp., bringing to 21 the total begun in the county since the loaning agency has been in operation. The suits were filed against Daisy A. Hodges and Emmett E. Hodges, in which the HOLC seeks foreclosure of a mortgage on a tract in Wallace and True's addition and judgments for $3,533.25 and $75.49, and against Gail McClelland and others, seeking foreclosure of a mortgage on a tract in Wallace and True's addition and judgment for $3,158.82. The HOLC is represented by Henry A. Mickley.

Answer Filed

The Marion Mortgage Co., a defendant in the foreclosure action brought by the HOLC against Alvadore Baughman and others, has filed an answer and cross petition, seeking judgment against Alvadore and Mildred C. Baughman in the amount of $479.70 to settle the mortgage company's claim against the property. The company is represented by Donithen & Michel.

Asks $15,150 Judgment

Jessie J. Harris as filed suit in common pleas court against Mrs. M. C. Lauer and Mrs. L. M. Lauer, both of Columbus, seeking judgment for $15,150 for injuries and damage allegedly suffered in an automobile collision in July of 1934. The plaintiff is represented by Mouser, Mouser & Wiant and Emerson & Robinson of Bellefontaine.

Partition Sought

Catherine Rippey has filed suit against John Adam Fraker and others, asking that the property in the estate of the late Margaret Fraker be partitioned and that her interest be set aside to her. She is represented by Carhart, Warner & Carhart.

Sues After Auto Trade

Mildred J. Pickeral has brought suit in common pleas court against Fred W. Shively, seeking $600 as a result of an automobile trade she made with the defendant. She says she traded her car, which she values at $500, to the defendant for his automobile and gave him $75 in addition. She claims that the car she received from Shively is worthless for either driving or sale purposes, and claims that she has been damaged to the extent of $25 in the loss of the use of a car since the trade was made the last of May. The plaintiff is represented by Mouser, Mouser & Wiant.

Demurrer Filed

The Commercial Steel Casting Co. has filed a demurrer in common pleas court in the $40,000 silicosis suit brought against it by John F. Kelrns of 260 Edwards street. The company claims that the Kelrns petition does not state facts that constitute a cause of action. Kelrns asserts he has contracted silicosis as a result of his employment. The Commercial company is represented by Ben T. Wiant.

Asks Dismissal

Homer E. Johnson, defendant in an action brought against Harry T. McColley and others by the Peoples Building, Savings & Loan Co., has filed an answer in which he says he is not required to pay on the note set forth in the plaintiff's petition because the note was due and payable on Nov. 1, 1917 and the loan company failed to bring action until last September. Mr. Johnson contends that suit for violation of contract cannot be brought after 15 years have passed. He asks dismissal of the first cause of action of the petition.

Wants Suit Dismissed

Bert G. Campbell and others, plaintiffs in a foreclosure action brought against Alson N. Tonguette and others, have filed a reply to the answer and cross petition of the defendants, denying the allegations of the latter and asking that it be dismissed. Distances Are Vast in G. O. P. Convention Hall

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., June 10—Perched in the very last seat under the dark towering balconies of the Republican national convention hall was Carey F. Clark of Cincinnati.

"Everything all right?" asked an usher.

"I feel," said Clark, "just like a pigeon."

"What's the matter, can't you see?"

"Well-er-yes," he replied, "but tell me, is that little white object down there the Empire State building in New York, or the Washington monument?"

"You mean the figure at the end of the platform?" inquired the usher politely.

"Oh, is that a platform?" continued Clark pointing to the green carpeted strip a city block away through the blue haze of tobacco smoke. "From here it looks like a match box."

The usher stared at the spectator and then took a step nearer him.

"What you trying to do, kid me?" he asked getting red in the face.

"No," said Clark, "I'm just trying to get my bearings. You see I came a long way to this show, yet I still feel like I'm in Cincinnati."

As the indignant usher bumped off down the aisle steps, Clark called to one of the other spectators seated in this distant section.

"If it wasn't for you folks," he said, "I'd be afraid away out here in the country."

"Well," was the reply, "I understand they hunt deer up here between rows J and K."

Off in the dim distance Henry P. Fletcher began banging for order.

"What's going on?" Clark called to the usher.

"That's the chairman," the attendant grumbled.

"Oh," sighed the spectator, "that's fine, what would make me happy is a telescope and a newspaper."

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 — While thousands cheered, Gen. Vandenberg of Michigan stood on the Republican convention platform saying "Walla, Walla, Walla, Walla" over and over again.

He was not on the program for an address, but photographers insisted that he move his lips as if making an oratorical flight. They couldn't suggest anything to say, so Vandenberg decided on "Walla, Walla."

Of all the convention tunes, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" made the biggest hit with Alexander Troyanovsky, Soviet ambassador to the United States. Sitting in a balcony seat in the big hall, he kept bobbing his head with the rhythm. "It's catchy," he smiled.

* * *

Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York, Borah booster, strode through a hotel lobby wearing Kansas sunflowers all over his broad back. Landon rooters had pinned them there when he wasn't looking.

* * *

By count, Sen. Steiwer's keynote speech was interrupted 63 times by applause.

* * *

Scores of women spectators in the brightly illuminated hall were wearing smoked-glasses and eye shades to dodge the blinding beams of light focused on many spots about the auditorium.

* * *

When the loud speaker system broke down during the keynote speech, a man in the balcony yelled through cupped hands—"look out for those Democrats, Sen. Steiwer." The senator laughed.

* * *

The Landon sunflowers seem to be growing fast in the Cleveland clime. At first they were rather small, but today the Landonites were handing out blooms that looked as big as dinner plates. They were floppy around the edges.

* * *

One enthusiastic gentleman appeared to be wearing a 1932 straw hat. It had a blue and white ribbon proudly proclaiming: "Hoover and Curtis."

* * *

The niftiest headgear so far spotted is worn by E. V. Robertson, national committeeman from Wyoming. It's a ten-gallon velour of a delicate cream hue adorned with a pink band.

* * *

Lobby sitters blinked when they saw a person in trousers wearing a badge proclaiming that he was "Mrs. Birdie Kennamer." It developed that it was Mrs. Kennamer's son Ralph, who was taking her place at the convention.

* * *

Some delegates, it is whispered, have run short of cash and are selling their extra convention tickets to brokers.

"Take the boys from the west coast, for instance," said Joe Laumer, broker. "They had a long way to come, and they had to pay their own expenses. The easiest way to make expenses is to sell a few tickets."

Joe is trying to market them at $25 a set.

Tway of King avenue, addition to a dwelling, approximately $425; Mrs. Genora Hoffhein of 367 Commercial street, addition to a dwelling, approximately $40.

DRIVER IS FINED $50 ON TAG CHARGE

Martin Higley of 433 Patterson street was fined $50 and costs when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of operating a motor vehicle with improper license plates. He was taken into custody on North Main street near the Pennsylvania tracks June 5, by highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station.

CHILD INJURED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Martha Butler, 8, of 873 Mark street, suffered a minor cut on her lip when the car in which she was riding driven by her brother Orville, collided with a truck owned by the City Ice & Fuel Co. The accident occurred yesterday at the alley intersection at the rear of the courthouse about 2:30 p. m., according to a report by police. The ice truck driven by Robert Kaelber of 161 Campbell street was traveling south, and Butler was driving east on Court street, police said. Both vehicles were damaged but were driven away under their own power.

AKRON, O., June 10—Workers in both plants No. 1 and 2, started a new sitdown strike at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. today.

VETS ON RURAL ROUTES TO GET BONDS TUESDAY

Mail Carriers Will Make Deliveries in Morning After Arrival Here from Cleveland.

While the methods to be employed in handling the World war bonus payoff in the villages and many of the rural districts in the county have not been announced here it is probable that they will be substantially the same as in Marion city.

Postmaster L. L. Lamborn explained today how the local postoffice will handle delivery and certification of the bonds on rural routes serviced from here. Delivery of the bonds to veterans living on rural mail routes will be made the morning following their arrival in Marion from Cleveland. Most of the bonds are expected to arrive late Monday or Tuesday and rural veterans will have them the following morning.

After they receive their bonds the veterans will come to the postoffice or Y. M. C. A. between the hours of 6 and 10 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights the same as those living in the city for certification of the bonds for payment.

Veterans living in the villages and on rural mail routes serviced by other than the Marion city postoffice should seek information on delivery and payment from their postmasters. It is probable that those postoffices will be able to handle the certification of the bonds without difficulty at any hour of the day, since they will service comparatively few bonus recipients.

Postmaster Lamborn explained that veterans who desire to cash only a part of their bonds must present them in numerical order, with the lowest bond number first. He stressed that veterans who do not wish to cash any of their bonds at the present time may have them certified for payment at any time in the future by calling at the postoffice. After the bonds are certified for payment by postal authorities or clerks they will be sent to the disbursing office of the federal treasury department in Cleveland and checks will be mailed to the veterans immediately.

Delivery of bonds in Marion city will be made on special trips by mail carriers between 6 and 10 o'clock at night, beginning Monday night. All uptown routes as well as residential routes will be covered by the regular carriers. Veterans are requested to stay at home Monday night, and Tuesday night if they have not received their bonds by then, as the bonds will be delivered only to the addressee, who must be known to the carrier or have some one at home with him who is known to the carrier. Veterans who work at night and find it impossible to remain at home are to notify their carrier and their bonds will be brought to them during the regular daytime intervals.

There are to be 30 clerks on duty Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at the postoffice and Y. M. C. A. to act as certifying officers. Also on duty will be about 30 members of veterans' organizations to help identify the bonus applicants. The names of the veterans performing this service will be published in Saturday's edition of The Star. They are being organized by D. J. Finley. Final details and instructions in the bonus payoff also will be announced Saturday.

ASSAILS NEW DEAL

BERTRAND H. SNELL

SNELL MAKES PLEA FOR G. O. P. HARMONY

maximum of social cooperation consistent with the faithful preservation of the just liberties of all the people."

Promises Worthiness

"We will not prove unworthy," he pledged.

"In our words and in our actions, the sons and daughters of America will find an answer to their hope. We shall speak to their hearts and consciences; and we shall win."

With platform contention rife, the veteran of many such controversies in congress cautioned against "meaningless political phrases and empty promises."

Do that, he said, and the voters "will abandon us to defeat. They call on us to turn our backs on the past and to lead them into the future."

He labeled the new deal a "grotesque failure," and contended American institutions had been debauched by "greedy partisanship" and ideals warped by "alien political philosophies."

Warming to his subject, Snell recalled that at Chicago in 1932—where he presided over the convention that renominated Hoover—he had warned the republic was never safe unless Republicans were "on guard."

"And, oh, how the last four years have driven that truth home to a dismayed people," he went on.

Hits at Extravagance

"In these four years every home has felt the heavy burden of the new deal's planned extravagance."

"Every cent of additional taxes serves but to increase the reckless power of the new deal spoilers and wasters.

"Every dollar added to our national debt is a new burden upon the back of youth. Already the new deal has cost us the progress and prosperity of a generation. Let us here begin our march to sanity and safety."

Some of his other arguments against the new deal were:

"We have a bewildering jargon of reciprocal tariff treaties recklessly throwing open the great American market."

"We see foreign trade gasping on the gallows."

NRA and "the bob-tailed blue eagle" meant suspension of all anti-trust statutes.

AAA was "conceived as a policy of shameful destruction."

Raps Political Spending

A "treasury-financed political machine" has been set up.

Three years have demonstrated, Snell insisted, that America "cannot squander her way back to a sound and sustained prosperity. There must be a return to sanity in fiscal management. That is the great decision the electorate will make next November."

The New Yorker addressed himself specifically to youth and women. "Come forth from the sepulchre of defeat and the dole," he appealed to youth. "This way lies life and hope and opportunity."

Addressing himself to women, Snell asked:

"How shall you teach your children—at home, at school, in the church—that a promise is an inviolable thing, when the government of the United States and its chief executive treat their solemn promises as mere scraps of paper."

CAREY KIWANIANS HEAR SAFETY TALK

H. P. Heyne of Industrial Commission Speaks

Special to The Star

CAREY, June 10—There were 10 guests at the Kiwanis club dinner Monday evening at the Pilgrim House. Those from out of town included William Hunter of Upper Sandusky. Herman P. Heyne of the industrial commission gave the address on "Safety — Bone Head Accidents."

Rev. Roderick Orians, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Orians of one mile south of Carey, Friar Minor conventual, celebrated his first solemn mass Sunday morning at 10:30 at the Shrine of Our Lady of Consolation church here. Rev. Orians officiated at the Vespers and benediction at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, followed by a reception in the Parish hall. Ordination to the holy priesthood was conferred by The Most Reverend Edmund F. Gibbons, D. D., Saturday June 6, at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Albany, N. Y.

LLEWELLYN NAMED LODGE CHANCELLOR

N. W. Llewellyn was chosen chancellor commander at the semi-annual election held last night by Canby Lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias. Carter M. Patton was elected vice chancellor, Clarence Markley, prelate, W. H. McElhaney, master-at-arms, and Reed Ours, inner guard. The officers will be installed at the first meeting in July.

Borah was assured of a chance to present his platform planks to the committe and to uphold them before the convention itself if rejected there.

The development electrified a hitherto listless convention because of the cleft within the party over the monetary, monopoly, foreign relations and other matters close to the veteran from Idaho.

Cheer Hoover Arrival

Cheers accompanied Mr. Hoover's arrival and progress through the crowded lobby of the Cleveland hotel.

Chester Rowell, chairman of the California delegation, said Hoover's speech tonight would "be no attempt for self-seeking or to stampede this convention."

But he was not expected to pull his punches against the new deal, any more than Snell or Steiwer in the keynote last night. Rowell promised a "devastating indictment."

Routine committee reports preceded Snell's turn. For a change, the relatively few delegate contests had little or no bearing on the nomination race.

Rep. John Martin, floor manager for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, predicted "a president will be nominated by Thursday night."

Others were not so sanguine of a quick getway. However, they might shout for Hoover, Snell and Steiwer in their forays against the administration, many delegates were quarreling among themselves.

Again they were slow in gathering for the session. The platform committeemen had labored until 2 a. m., and the credentials committee until past six o'clock. Numerous others had tired eyes, but for different reasons.

Snell Comes Early

Cool in a tan linen suit, Snell was among the relatively few early arrivals. He practiced with the gavel jocularly in blows that resounded.

The Landon sunflower emblems still were much in evidence.

The Kansas salient, in the "midwest" section of the convention floor, was all smiles. Word had sped there that 50 of the 75 Pennsylvania votes were for their governor. The rest were to be scattered.

Some disappointment but no surprise was the reaction to Landon's assertion in Topeka that he would not come to the convention "regardless of developments."

Landon prefers for the acceptance speech to be deferred to August.

Against the tide, hand bills were being cast for the nomination of Sen. Vandenberg.

The band swung into "Dixie"—to rouse the first enthusiastic note of the day.

John Hamilton, the Landon manager, was busy among the gathering delegates. He spent some time with the Montana and Arizona delegations.

Watson Greets All

"Jim" Watson of Indiana held open court for all comers right beneath the speaker's stand. The old handshake was as firm and fast as ever.

All rose for the invocation of Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of Chicago.

His prayer invoked divine guidance for settlement of the problems of the needy.

Heads were raised as one across the beflagged expanse of seats as he gave way for temporary chairman.

Few of the delegates paid attention to Steiwer's next introduction—"The Three Brown Bears," a musical trio.

What interested them more apparently was the ripple of report and counter-report about who would stand where when the decisive moment came tomorrow.

Say They'll Switch

Some Maine and New Hampshire delegates indicated that their nearly solid votes for Frank Knox of Illinois on the first ballot were likely to be mere "courtesy" votes and that on the second roll call, they might swing over to Landon.

Business began with the report of the credentials committee headed by Walter S. Hallahan of West Virginia.

His first word was that by 26 to 16 the committee favored the delegation headed by the old figure, "Tieless Joe" Tolbert of South Carolina, instead of the faction led by J. C. Hambright.

Tolbert, a delegate to every convention since 1888 until he was unseated in 1932 at Chicago, was turned down by the national committee, but he won out here.

All of the few other credentials contests were settled as recommended by the national committee.

Only 57 seats had been contested, and the usual attempts to line them up for presidential nominees were missing.

Charles G. Dawes, former vice president and Mrs. Edith Van De Water, national committeewoman from California, escorted Snell to the platform.

Little attention was given to the "nos" which rose when the committee on permanent organization recommended him for the chairmanship. Steiwer banged down, and the report went through.

Snell's first applause came when he called for a "crusade" against the new deal. For the most part, the convention listened in attentive silence.

An exception came as the New Yorker shouted "thank God no Republican President has ever so violated a constitutional oath by calling upon the members in congress to violate theirs."

He referred to President Roosevelt's action in asking approval of the Guffey coal bill, although some members might doubt its constitutionality.

The spectacle of cheering or silently attentive thousands in the auditorium held less interest for some state delegations than their caucuses. Some big voting blocs had yet to make their official decisions as to where they would go finally. They included New York with 90 votes; Pennsylvania 75; Ohio 53; and California 44.

These total 261 votes and could wield a balance of power in a close contest. Friends of two most discussed possibilities were expressing private doubts that non-Landon votes could be expected to stay that way long.

Speculate on Mate

This word spread quickly, to be followed by a resurgence of vice presidential speculation.

Names mentioned included Steiwer, Gov. H. Style Bridges of New Hampshire, former Sen. Otis F. Glenn of Illinois and Walter Edge of New Jersey; Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania; and—regardless of his "I won't take it"—Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Col. Frank Knox of Illinois took a stand for a dollar redeemable in gold at the present value, to the dissatisfaction of an outspoken element having a hand in the platform making. He indicated that unless the plank meets his views, he would not allow his name to be presented for the nomination.

As the platform parleys proceeded, the telephone line to Topeka, home of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, was kept busy to prevent a schism.

Hold Key Posts

Captains for Gov. Landon, whose friends have been urging him for the nomination as a "middle - of - the - roader," easily gained the key positions on the committee. As early as last night there were rumors of an overture by them to obtain Borah views but the Idaho senator waited up until late hours without the expected mediator showing up.

John Hamilton, the Landon manager, revised his estimates of strength every once in a while and only in one direction—upward. But he was not undertaking to forecast that the harmony which characterized the first sessions of the convention would continue.

One predicted explosion failed to materialize. Robert H. Lucas, Kentuckian who has been lambasting "old guard" influence, abandoned his attempt to prevent Snell's election to the strategic presiding role.

Snell, Steiwer Aloof

Snell and Steiwer both showed they did not consider it appropriate for them to take a hand as between Landon, Borah, and Knox—the only acknowledged rivals. The keynote was "party solidarity" in the face of the common enemy, much like Snell's appeal in taking up at Chicago four years ago the same job he has here.

This time a new theme was added. Steiwer specifically invited a political campaign on the issues "regardless of party lines." Hoover has been drilling on that point.

Greeted with enthusiasm on starting his keynote, Steiwer quickly paid a compliment to the only living ex-President at the expense of the present executive.

If the voters will assert their heritage, he said, they need never again fear a debacle such as we had in March, 1933, when a President-elect without a conscience refused for four months to cooperate with a President who had a conscience."

Shouts, whistling and applause drowned the next words.

The bulky Oregonian called Mr. Roosevelt "a new deal Caesar," decrying "false humanitarianism," government in business, "taxation to support a vast bureaucracy" and "centralization of power."

Denies Obstruction Tactics

"Failure of the new deal cannot be attributed to obstruction," he said. "In the beginning Republicans in congress forgot politics to cooperate. The suffering caused by the depression affected all in authority regardless of party. In my own case I threw aside partisan considerations and voted for some of the temporary measures to meet the emergency."

Between the waves of handclapping, the audience listened for the most part in quiet attention. Perspiration dropped from the Steiwer chin and his frame vibrated with his intensity as he pledged relief of the needy by his party.

"The combined efforts of reckless and uninformed trade agreements plus monetary policies," he contended, "are fast putting our nation under foreign control. The devaluation of the dollar, combined with the purchase of gold at $35 an ounce, has given to foreigners in gold-standard countries a bargain rate in America."

Sen. Vandenberg, the first of those discussed as presidential possibilities to appear on the platform, was given a momentary ovation by the auditorium crowds.

There seemed slight chance today that Borah would make a speech to the convention.

He absented himself from the first session and would not say in advance whether he would be on hand for the speech by Hoover, to whom he has long been opposed.

STEIWER CALLS FOR "AMERICAN DEAL" IN KEYNOTE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 — The text of the keynote speech by Sen. Steiwer of Oregon to the Republican national convention last night follows:

We meet tonight as the convention of a great and honorable political party. We do not meet as partisans, but as patriotic Americans solemnly determined to proceed in the American way to launch a campaign to restore America to the American people.

All Parties Invited

Our purpose is not only to adopt a Republican platform and to nominate a Republican president—a deeper and thoroughly American purpose is to start the drive to put an American deal into the place now usurped by a self-styled "New Deal."

In this service to our country we invite the aid and counsel of all Americans, regardless of political party. There are no party lines when human liberty is at stake. In this crisis, the issues are above all party differences.

The duty of the united patriots of all parties is to restore to the American people their political and economic freedom and to provide them with a competent government founded on a conviction and conscience.

It can be done. But it will not be done if we permit ourselves to be deceived by the defeatist talk of our enemies. The nation knows by this time that the administration is equipped with a monstrous, reckless propaganda machine operated with the taxpayers' money to advance its own ends.

No matter who the choice of this convention and no matter what the platform, this machine will be set in operation. In the face of our advances in the campaign, we will hear the false cry that our efforts have fallen flat.

Morality Is Demanded

These falsehoods will be recognized and rightly resented by the people. The people will make the world know that this nation can not be bluffed and can not be bought.

Political morality must be restored.

For more than three long years we have had a government without political morality. I propose to show you that government endowed with conscience will bring us a prosperity not built on promise and pretense, but built with the bricks and mortar of fundamental principles.

This prosperity will not be measured with the crooked lines and crooked trick phrases of unconstitutional legislation, but by lines that square with the rules of honesty and morality.

New Deal Is Scored

When this convention shall have finished its labors, we shall offer the country a candidate with a sense of duty, and a platform that binds his conscience to guarantee to America that the nation shall not be again deceived by political adventurers who have perverted the most sacred fundamentals of our government.

We propose to carry forward the lamp of American progress; the lamp which has been dimmed by the depression and which the new deal has tried to extinguish. We propose to show those who have waited for more than three long years for a real job how that job is to be obtained.

We propose to show further to those who have jobs how those jobs can be protected against the ravages of the collapse which is inevitable under the new deal. The 10 million unemployed shall at last get the consideration which they deserve—and with it the privilege of honest work. They must be permitted to work again as free men and not languish as vote-slaves, nor as slaves of the dole.

We propose to show the 40,000,000 now in gainful employment that economic freedom depends upon adherence to a system under which their pay envelopes will not shrink and under which their life insurance policies and savings bank deposits will be protected.

If this great group of Americans will assert their heritage as Americans, they need never again fear a debacle such as we had in March, 1933, when a President-elect without a conscience refused for four months to cooperate with a President who had a conscience, resulting in a bank crisis and panic of fear and fright.

People Placed First

This nation deserves a government by conscience. In order that its free institutions may be maintained, we have a right to insist upon a President who puts the interest of the people above considerations of personal politics

A primary function of our government is to keep open the way to employment at wages which will provide an increasingly higher standard of living.

How can we achieve this objective? Not by trick formulas and sharp practices. They have all been tried and found worthless, for they have only made worse the disease they set out to cure. That could not be otherwise, for this administration has never diagnosed the disease they said they could cure. Like the leeches of old, they have bled a patient who already was suffering from loss of blood.

Let us see how we as a nation earn our living. In 1930 the percentage of our people engaged in agriculture was about 22 and in industry was about 32. The other 46 per cent gainfully employed were in the service occupations and dependent upon the two great pillars, agriculture and industry.

If the workers and the owners in agriculture and in industry can mutually exchange man hours of labor on a proper level, their capacity to consume is boundless. The servicing of their wants brings into profitable employment the great army who do not produce goods, but who produce services, and who are as necessary as those who produce goods. Automobiles would not be of much use without gas stations.

The principle of balance to which I have referred extends throughout the American system of economics. The ideals of both the great political parties have always had to do with finding ways and means to make that system work more perfectly. Our parties have differed as to those ways and means, but never until March, 1933, has an administration elected to preserve and develop the American system tried, by the autocratic use of its executive power, to abolish the very system that it was sworn to conserve. And no administration has ever before pretended that destruction was reform.

Our system has not worked perfectly, but it has provided more for the man who works than has any other system the world has ever known, and the chief reason for the present unemployment in this country is the blocking of the progress of the American system by trying out plans and ideas borrowed from the poverty economics of Europe and resorted to by this administration in a frantic effort to catch the applause of the people. We propose to restore the balance that makes jobs.

Wage Increases Cited

The American system as administered by the two great political parties between 1910 and 1929 brought the average annual earnings of wage and salaried workers in industry actually employed from $670 to $1520 a year. The same period saw the average annual gross agricultural income per person actually employed raised from $750 to $1570 a year.

Or, to put it another way, in 1910 it took a year's work to buy an automobile, but in 1929 it took only half a year's work. In consequence, where in 1910 we had less than half a million passenger cars, in 1929 we had more than 23,000,000.

That is the period which the new dealers contemptuously refer to as the era of tooth and claw. There could be no better testimony of the strength of the American system and to the character of the American people than that it has been able to sustain the orgy of the new deal. The people have created wealth faster than a profligate government could squander it.

What are the principles of the American system which must be put in force if we are to recover from the new deal? Here is a simple statement of some of them.

1. Our government must provide an honest money and banking system which will permit the free and uninterrupted exchange of wealth and will not be subject to the sinister control of any group. Whether the group be politicians in Washington or speculators in Wall Street the consequences to the public are the same. The money system must not be any man's toy.

2. Our government is a vast business enterprise. But it is not run as a business. Had the people understood the relation of government finance to the national wealth and to the income and outgo of the people, there would have been no new deal.

3. Foreign trade may create either an asset or a liability. If we import goods which could be made or grown at home, we deprive American workers or farmers of the opportunity to earn livelihoods and break down the American standards of living and thus compel a dependence upon foreign sources of supply. Such dependence cripples us in peace and renders us helpless in war. In effect there is no difference between receiving goods made by pauper labor and receiving the pauper labor itself.

4. Agriculture's prosperity is fundamental to the prosperity of the nation and farm income must be kept in balance with industrial income.

5. Ours is an economy of profit and loss. It cannot thrive without both. Law or regulation to guard against the losses inevitable in competition freezes industry and prevents progress.

6. Government regimentation of business works to destroy business. Business half-slave, half-free, cannot pay adequate wages or adequate profits and cannot adequately serve the consumer. The direct competition of government in business uses the money of all the people to destroy the property of a part of the people.

7. A dollar primarily belongs to the man who earns it. Taxation is a seizure of purchasing power from the hands of its owner. Taxation to support a vast bureaucracy billets bureaucrats on every family and curtails the ability of that family to provide for itself.

8. Under the American system, it is the business of government to govern according to the will of the people as expressed in the laws. No one can excuse the bureaucrats' use of taxpayers' money to write laws and to buy propaganda in order to force these same laws on the people.

9. Our nation owes to our people the duty to take advantage of our fortunate geographical position and to avoid all foreign entanglements.

Are these views liberal or are they conservative? I must answer by asking what the word "liberal" means. If it means jumping up and down and not getting anywhere, the principles are not liberal. If liberal means pressing forward on the facts and promising only what can be performed, then the principles are liberal. Whether liberal or conservative, these are among the principles by which the spectacular progress of this nation has been achieved.

Record Is Reviewed

Let us review the record of the New Deal in the light of these principles. At the Jackson dinner in Washington, the New Deal candidate asserted that the basic issue in this campaign is the retention of popular government. We agree. But we do not agree that the people's government is retained under a system headed by a New Deal Caesar. An administration in which substantially all power is concentrated in one branch is not in keeping with the principles of popular government. The contrary is true. The New Deal and its candidate are alike destructive of the basic essentials of popular government. You and I know, and all should know, that the security of our liberties and economic opportunities demands that the constitutional balance of the American government shall be restored.

Centralization of power is the Siamese twin of bureaucracy. Expensive and arbitrary, its supreme evil is greed for money and power. History shows that centralized autocracy invariably seeks to build itself greater and stronger on the ruins of the people's liberties. It reaches for control of the education of children and the formation of thought, and finally all human rights, including religious freedom, must yield to its tyranny.

Change Is Promised

When a chief executive finds unconstitutional concentration of power in himself, he should exercise his constitutional power to recommend that Congress take back its authority. This wholesome recommendation will be made in January, by an oath-keeping Republican president.

The New Deal has driven a wedge between what it calls the "underprivileged" and the business man, the professional man and the producer. To strengthen its political hold, it has adopted the un-American attitude of setting class against class. It asserts that it has driven the "money changers" from the temple.

Where are these money changers? They are still in the temple. For the present administration, by its tax bills, has tried to abolish thrift in business and to put every concern, big or little, into the hands of money lenders. Indeed the only business successfully fostered by this administration has been the debt business. That has prospered.

It promised to preserve the merit system in government service, yet every day brings an accretion of New Deal spoilsmen to the federal pay roll. Fine public servants have been ruthlessly replaced by favorites, and the government today is literally the worst, most conscienceless employer in the land.

Alien Charge Made

The New Deal pretends it would protect American interests, yet harbors aliens who are not entitled to remain in America, but are permitted to remain and who compete with the American working man, increase the cost of our struggle against crime and add to our relief burden. It coddles agitators and encourages the purveyors of unrest at a time when the nation needs a firm and dignified leadership.

Not content to employ professors and theorists as economic advisers, the New Deal has placed the affairs of government in their hands. It depends on bookworms for practical experience and bookworms for energy. It renounced the purposes and ideals of the great party whose name it bears and threw away the opportunity for service which that party long had sought.

The New Deal propagandists boast of its humanitarian purpose and support this boast by pointing to federal aid of those in distress. Such aid was and is an obvious duty of a civilized nation. But the irony of it is that the administration made only one gesture of a permanent character toward fulfilling its pledge to balance the federal budget. That was an act to reduce compensation and to withhold hospitalization from the disabled veterans of our wars, while at the same time the New Deal planned lavish spending for other purposes. In order to trap congressional support for its bill, it pretended that it would deal justly with the veterans and that it would continue a program of genuine economy. The poor and the maimed who suffered the administration's ingratitude are far from convinced that it was actuated by humanitarian purposes.

Relief Methods Hit

Their program of aid to the distressed is further condemned for its abuse of great national purpose in order to serve the venal desires of New Deal politicians. This has been characterized as the "poison of politics in the bread of relief." Reform in the methods of relief will result in more relief to the destitute at less cost to the taxpayer.

The Republican party will not turn its back on those in distress, but it will make sure that public funds voted to feed hungry mouths will be used for that purpose and will not be employed for the enrichment of political straphangers. The money provided for work relief is not the personal gift of any politicians, but is the money of the people of the United States.

Every consideration of decency in politics condemns the politician who would make private or partisan use of the distribution of the people's money. If the Salvation Army had used its good works to build a political organization as was done by the New Deal army, it could have claimed the whole world—not merely the 48 states claimed by Farley.

Bad Bargain Is Seen

New Deal politicians tell us that prosperity has been returned through their efforts. The improvement that has come has been largely purchased at the expense of the public treasury, and we have paid for more prosperity than we have received. Improvement purchased on credit is a dear luxury, uncertain to this generation—unjust to the next.

When national resources and credit are exhausted, the nation will find itself face to face with those unpleasant facts; That purchased business activity is not enduring; that our duty to the 10 million unemployed has not been met; and furthermore, that the power of the federal government to provide for those who are destitute has been frittered away until the nation itself has become destitute.

We remember that the relief load is greater than it was before congress provided the President with a blank check for near $6,000,000,000 of our people's money.

No informed person will credit any permanent improvement to New Deal policy. On its record it stands convicted of the crime of retarding recovery. In many foreign nations, where there is no New Deal, improvement has been more marked than in the United States. Yet America is the most virile nation of the world, and possesses the greatest natural resources and the finest spirit of enterprise. It should have led the world in recovery, instead of lagging in twentieth place. No hypocritical pretense will acquit the New Deal on this count.

Obstruction Is Denied

The failure of the New Deal cannot be attributed to Republican obstruction. In the beginning of its administration Republicans in congress forgot politics in their desire to cooperate.

The suffering caused by depression affected all in authority regardless of party. In my own case I threw aside partisan considerations and voted for some of the temporary measures to meet the emergency. In varying degrees we subordinated our personal and partisan views to support the national program.

At a later time we were forced to conclude that the administration's design was to convert these temporary stop-gap laws into permanent policy and thus remodel the whole life of the nation.

This design was without mandate from the country and is contrary to every American conviction against autocratic federal authority. We who voted to aid are most surely justified in our efforts to arouse understanding of the fact that the administration has committed the unpardonable sin in seeking to convert its temporary emergency program into permanent policy, and the further fact that it has not proved itself competent to administer the authority which it so eagerly acquired.

"Deliberately Retarded"

This is the only administration in our history which has deliberately impaired private credit, destroyed confidence and intimidated capital. The prudent, everywhere, abstain from risk which is aggravated by policies that harass and destroy. No one would advocate reform ahead of recovery except the reformers who can experiment and exploit only when the people are in distress. In the fear that if the country recovers it will not take any more of their reforms, they have manufactured turmoil and disorder.

The patient needs a competent physician, not those quacks of confusion. Pointing the finger of promise toward abundance, the New Deal has aimed its policies of performance in exactly the opposite direction. If Noah, in anticipation of the flood, had installed an irrigation system instead of building the ark, his mistake would have been no worse than have been the New Deal economic blunders.

What has the administration done to agriculture? After three long years of complete control of every branch of the federal government, they have failed to provide a permanent farm program. Farm income in 1935, including the government checks, was $3,000,000 less than in the "twenties."

Food Price Boost Hit

They made worse the triple A program by maladministration—by making food costly and scarce. When the law was held invalid they wholly ignored the Supreme Court and shifted hysterically to a stop-gap measure called the soil conservation act.

Under this act they continue temporarily the regulation of production which has been held unconstitutional. This makeshift is a manifest effort to deceive the farmer. The fact is the administration has no program, and when this act is also held unconstitutional an impotent New Deal will be floundering helplessly together with the farmer whom they seek to deceive.

GALION WOMAN TELLS OF LIFE IN GERMANY

Claims Hitler Has Revived Nation and Brought Order Out of Chaos.

Special to The Star

GALION, June 10—An account of conditions in a "new" Germany was made this week in an interview with Mrs. E. P. Mansfield of Galion. Mrs. Mansfield returned home Sunday evening after a seven months' visit with relatives and friends in Germany. She and her sister, Mrs. Leo Schimek of Chicago, sailed on the Bremen Oct. 26.

While in Germany she visited in Oldenburg, Muenster, Cologne, Coblentz, Bad Bertrich, Duesseldorf and Westphalia. The great majority of people there, she found, are wholeheartedly back of Hitler. He is regarded as the savior of Germany. All of the people to whom she talked about Hitler said he saved Germany from communism. She was told that political and economic affairs had become so chaotic that Germany was on the verge of going communistic, and the rise to power of Hitler and his National Socialist party prevented this.

Several of Mrs. Mansfield's cousins who are storm troopers told her of frequent clashes between groups of their men and Communist bands.

So great is the feeling against Communists that red colored mail boxes were all painted blue. Most of the German Communists have gone to France, she said.

The car carries special made Ohio license plate, with the number, 3,000,000, and issued by Frank West, state registrar of motor vehicles. It left Marion for Columbus, where it was to make an overnight stop.

Star's Next Serial Story Exciting Mystery Drama

The news of Arthur Burdett's murder fell with dramatic suddenness on Nellie Reeves' dinner party. With a force equally disturbing it made suspects of a number of quiet country folk to whom the simple joys of English village life were to be preferred to the glare of publicity which the tragic event had brought on them.

Arthur Burdet is the old miser whose untimely end gives the name to "Murder Tonight," Laurence W. Meynell's new story, which starts Saturday, June 13, in The Star. His standing in the community was evident to Detective Inspector Hylton as soon as he arrived and plunged into the mystery. Tears for the departed were absent, and few too were the clues for which an earnest detective must be on the lookout, ears and eyes attentive and well-thumbed notebook unlimbered.

That notebook soon was to contain a number of significant jottings, not the least of which pertained to the Reeves party. There was, for instance, this matter of Dale Shipley's late and unexplained arrival. Hadn't it taken Dale an inordinately long time to make the short trip from his home to the Reeves place? Could the delay have been due to a visit to his uncle on the way, perhaps the renewal of the bitter quarrel which townsfolk were to remember later?

Inspector Hylton wasn't the sort of detective to keep his nose in his notebook all the time, however. He would have been less than human if he had failed to observe, that Mrs. James White, wife of the local police sergeant, was an unusually attractive woman, that eccentric Nancy Featherstone was trying to protect someone and that some of the other women were, to say the least, mysterious.

Meynell's new story promises first-rate entertainment for everybody.

TUNNEY CONDUCTS HIS OWN DEFENSE

By The Associated Press

WOODBURY, Conn., June 10—James J. "Gene" Tunney entered the second round today in his fight against a justice court conviction on charges of violating rules of the road.

The former world's heavyweight champion boxer filed notice of appeal to common pleas court from a fine of $5 and costs of the same amount imposed by Justice of the Peace Edward S. Boyd on a constable's complaint he had failed to heed a highway "stop" sign.

Conducting his own defense in court here last night, Tunney received the plaudits of spectators with the announcement:

"I will see this case through the supreme court of the United States." He told the court he was the victim of a "road trap."

Prospect Street M.E. Church Aid Society To Celebrate Its Golden Anniversary

The fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Ladies' Aid society of the Prospect Street M. E. church will be celebrated Thursday night when the members entertain members of the church and their friends to a golden anniversary program and entertainment at the church. The society is one of the oldest in Marion.

Fifty years ago this month, a group of about 25 young German-speaking women of the church organized the aid society and four of these charter members are still living. They are Mrs. Mary Hecker, 88, of 393 Windsor street, Mrs. Katherine Schweinfurth, 79, of 459 South Prospect street, Mrs. Louisa Beicher, 75, of 300 Pearl street, and Mrs. Catherine Manz who is now living in Parkersburg, W. Va. If at all possible the three Marion women will be present for the golden anniversary celebration.

Early Records Faded

The early history of the society was written in German script, and the ink is faded, making a concise history of the organization virtually impossible, but it is estimated that in 50 years the society has raised $6,000 for the church. The Aid society bought the first pulpit Bible used in the church and the first pulpit chairs, and at one time carpeted the church and parsonage.

In early days the society had various ways of raising money, but nowadays, with every one busy, it is easier to contribute money directly than to prepare and serve suppers, and the members add to the treasury by selling gelatine, waxed paper, extracts, and other items used in every home. Generally the sale is conducted among the members, with little outside soliciting.

There are now 68 members, and their dues are 10 cents a month, which brings nearly $100 into the treasury at the end of a year. Each year the society pays something into the church budget.

When members of the congregation find times hard, the society quietly sets about its welfare work, and when members of the congregation are ill, the society brightens the sickroom with flowers.

Purpose To Assist Church

The Aid society at the Prospect Street church is organized to assist the church in any way possible and to stress spiritual values in life.

Eight of the past presidents are living and probably will be present at the anniversary celebration. They are Mrs. Pauline Martin of Cherry street, Mrs. Mary Hecker of Windsor street, Mrs. Stella Wilhelm of Mt. Vernon avenue, Mrs. Winifred Roush of near Marion, Mrs. Katherine Schweinfurth of South Prospect street, Mrs. Selma Ruth of Elm street, Mrs. Avryl Gomf of West Church street, and Mrs. Edith Wanner of Windsor street.

Early meetings of the society were held in homes of the members but about 15 years ago the membership had increased to a number too large for home meetings and since that time the society has held its meetings at the church.

A "dollar shower" will be a feature of the program hour Thursday night. Members who can will contribute one dollar each toward an anniversary fund goal of $50.

Mrs. Henry Maag, wife of the pastor, is chairman of arrangements for the program, which will be as follows:

Orchestra selection; song, "Marching to Zion"; prayer, Rev. Maag, pastor; scripture Mrs. John Shelton; hymn, "I'm Happy in the Service of the King"; greetings, Mrs. William Wanner, president; song, Silvertone Women's quartet of the Wesley M. E. church; history of the society, prepared by Miss Bertha Gracely and read by Mrs. Ferdinand Hecker; organ and piano selection, Miss Mary Ellen Kerr and Miss Hildegarde Wanner; remarks by past presidents; whistling solo, Mrs. Gail Smith; ceremony honoring charter members; memorial service for members who have died; trombone selection, Leonard Parker; offertory song, "Something for Jesus," Mrs. N. B. Weaver and Mrs. O. S. Goodrich; selection by [illegible] tone quartet.

After the program, which will be given in the church auditorium, there will be a social hour, entertainment in the basement recreation room. A playlet, "Sweet Family," will be given by a group of women of the Brethem grange south of Marion, refreshments will be served.

Present officers of the society are Mrs. Wanner, president; Mrs. Clarence Gompf, vice president; Mrs. John Shelton, secretary; Mrs. Otto Long, treasurer; Mrs. John Shelton, pianist; Mrs. John [illegible], finance chairman; Mrs. [illegible] Boyd, welfare chairman.

There is always need for re... But what has the incumbent administration done in connection with its pledge for such reform? It enacted in 1934 the reciprocal trade agreement act.

This law permits agreements to be made in secret, and without consultation with the American interests affected, and without fair opportunity to protect those interests. It establishes a dictatorship over our domestic economy. It clothes the New Deal with authority to reward one section of the country at the expense of another.

It enables these politicians to determine which community shall be promoted and which shall be destroyed by exposure to foreign competition. Without giving the people or the people's representatives in the senate opportunity to express any opinion, it permits inexperienced visionaries in the New Deal to destroy opportunity which our people need and should be permitted to enjoy.

Trade Loss Is Seen

Of course, such a system fails to accomplish expansion in our foreign trade, which was the declared purpose of the law. It has increased the sale in our markets of goods produced by aliens which our producers should have supplied.

Agreements have been negotiated right and left with shrewd foreign traders who have reduced rates on articles which they desired to import into their countries, whereas the administration's pretended "good neighbor" policy has resulted in American reductions of duty in agricultural, dairy and forest products of which we already had a surplus.

The net result is a downward revision of the tariff which has seriously impaired our American system of protection. For the sake of our people, we must realize that the administration's wishful hope to rescue the world at our expense has injured American industries and agriculture and added to unemployment, destitution and want.

The combined effort of reckless and uninformed trade agreements plus the administration's monetary policies are fast putting our nation under foreign control. The devaluation of the dollar, combined with the purchase of gold at $35 an ounce, has given to foreigners in gold-standard countries a bargain rate in America.

They have sold us gold to the extent of nearly three billion dollars. With the proceeds the foreigners have bought our securities, have taken back their own defaulted securities at a discount, and although we were a creditor nation, we are in fact probably now a debtor nation. And the New Dealers have not found it out.

Points to Way Out

To preserve our country we must get into the American stride again. One way to do it is to rid every administrative post of the political opportunists who now distort the policies of our government.

Our basic law was framed by far-seeing patriots who sought improvement by every honorable means. To permit change and expansion, opportunity for amendment was provided in the Constitution itself. But the present administration, not trusting the people in whom alone reposes this power, has attempted to effect changes by devious procedures that amount to nullification.

At no time has the New Deal been frank enough to reveal its real purpose by submitting a proposal for constitutional amendment. The administration has shown preference for change by indirect means.

In this they are entitled only to the people's condemnation. The menace to our American system lies, not in amendment by due and regular procedure, but in its nullification by indirection. A shocking perversion of Democratic principles is reflected in the assumption of New Deal autocracy that it should exercise greater powers and that it, and not the people, should determine the extent of such power.

Spending Is Attacked

Another way to regain our American stride is to reduce forthwith the size of the federal government and stop its wasteful spending. We point to our record of past performance. Fifteen years ago the Republican party met a fiscal situation not unlike that which confronts the country today. Our nation was deep in debt and taxes, government bonds were 10 or 12 points below par.

Millions were unemployed. The budget system was installed and enforced. Taxes were cut, debts were reduced and government bonds went to par and stayed there! During the 12 years of Republican administration taxes were reduced five times. What we have done once we will do again.

Above all else is the old-fashioned idea of thrift. No government can borrow itself rich, or spend itself prosperous. In private affairs we succeed only by the practice of sensible economy. Those who practice extravagance invite destruction. This nation, for a time, forgot the necessity for economy. We have learned it again. The administration has demonstrated that it is unable to obtain even a semblance of prosperity except for buying it, and its purchases are on a basis so vast and so impractical that they ultimately would destroy America. By midsummer the amount of their spending will equal the value of all the farm land and all the farm buildings in the United States, and the New Deal harvest is yet to come.

Tax Yoke Under Fire

By July 1 the present administration will have increased the national debt more than 14 billion dollars, and has announced that before a balanced budget can be obtained there will be a further increase of several additional billions. I warn you that if America is to survive, debt expansion must be ended.

A resolute and uncompromising purpose to secure a balanced budget, and honest assurances of reduction in debt are essential to restoration of public confidence. Then the business world will know there will be no further devaluation of the dollar; that we will no longer stand at the brink of inflation; that there will be no further repudiation of public obligations, and that there will be no additional exactions by the tax collector. These essential assurances will start in motion the wheels of industry.

An hypocrisy which the New Deal seeks to foist upon the people is the belief that the rich pay the bill. But inasmuch as 62 cents out of every dollar coming into the United States treasury is derived from concealed or indirect taxes, it is plain that the common people pay the lion's share.

Sales Taxes Decried

The taxes which impoverish are the sales taxes and other exactions which are concealed in the cost of living, and which increase the price of food and clothing. When you purchase gasoline, is it possible that the big oil company pays the sales tax, or is it posted over the gas pump and taken out of the pocket of the little man who buys the gas?

Behind the barrage of vainglorious boasting by the administration propagandists of their service to the people is the brutal truth that the burden of supporting federal extravagance is added to the cost of maintaining human life. It becomes a tyrannical exaction upon every man, every woman and every child, including the average man, the under privileged and even the forgotten man.

Under this administration average wages have increased about 8 per cent while the cost of living has increased approximately 20 per cent. Every one of our 40,000,000 toilers are also payers, and they and their sons and daughters will keep on paying long after we have ousted the spendthrifts. Today the wage earner is working at least one day a week solely to pay the cost of government.

Youth Problem Talked

The New Deal candidate in his Baltimore speech of April employed the tactics of the Soviet Union when he said that flaming youth had become a flaming question; that the best that had been done for youth before the depression was not good enough then and is not good enough today.

This is one way of saying that youth had been fettered and mistreated in a society controlled by adults. He insinuates that fathers and mothers lack pride in their sons and that parents and grandparents are indifferent to the future of those who bear their names.

To this insult I answer that no supposed handicap suffered by youth prior to the depression can compare with the loss sustained when youth is compelled by the false economics of the New Deal to exchange their American opportunity, to which they are entitled, for enrollment in a federal camp at $30 per month. Nor can this supposed handicap compare with the cruel slavery caused by the inheritance of New Deal debt. New Deal extravagance is bending the backs of the people with an unfair burden and has condemned all the babies of the entire nation to be rocked in cradles decorated by debt.

Message Is Recalled

If I appraise correctly the high character of American women they will not wait for the leadership of men in rising to the defense of the homes of this nation. They will accept their responsibility to the children in those homes. They will repudiate the New Deal at the ballot box.

In 1933 in a message to Congress, the President used these words:

"For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy."

And then he said:

"Thus we have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000."

That was the accumulation of four years. Let us consider the accumulation of the last three long years. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the deficit was approximately four billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 19835, it was in excess of three and a half billion dollars.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and eliminating any requirement for the payment of the soldiers' bonus, the deficit is between three and a half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced. For three long years we have continued on the road toward bankruptcy. Instead of an accumulated deficit of five billion dollars in four years, we have a deficit of approximately eleven billion dollars in three years—but they are three very long years.

Totals Are Offered

During the same period the government spending has gone up. Listen to the astounding totals—for three long years: For the fiscal year 1933, approximately five billion dollars; for 1934, seven billion dollars; for 1935, seven billion four hundred million dollars; for 1936, seven billion six hundred million dollars, and the estimate of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, is in excess of eight and a quarter billion dollars.

I ask this question—for how long a period has the federal deficit exceeded that which the President denounced? For three long years! For how long a period has the federal spending been kept above the seven billion dollar line? For three long years. For how long a period has the chief executive called upon the Congress to pass a new tax bill increasing the tax burden upon a helpless nation? For three long years. For how long have we lived under the evil trinity of increased deficit, increased debt and increased taxes? For three long years.

We will end its tyranny when we rid our government of the New Deal speculators who have speculated for three long years. They have speculated with the billions of the people's money just as the gamblers of Wall Street speculated with the millions belonging to those same people.

"Keep the Doors Open"

Without doubt the greatest need in the life of most of us is that the doors of opportunity be held open that we may pay the obligations which we have assumed. It is the plain duty of a just government to guarantee that those doors shall remain open. If we take stock of our situation, what do we find?

First, a people loaded with debt and lacking for essential credit. Second, an administration which has permitted industries to write their own codes into law, has permitted the fixing of prices and has failed to enforce anti-trust laws.

It advocates high costs of production with the resultant high prices which prevent people from buying. Its theory destroys the purchasing power of the people and results in under-consumption. It is the theory of scarcity. Labor will be employed and private debts will be paid only if the people are permitted and encouraged to produce. The nation needs new wealth, which will be had only through an economy based on fair prices, free competition and more efficient and cheaper distribution. Fixing of prices by monopolies and combines picks the pocket of the buying public.

Worthy Issue Seen

Here is a worthy issue against the blundering fantasies of the New Deal. It is the cause of economic justice. I urge this cause upon the ground that protection of the weak is the highes function of government. It will make it possible for the small business man to develop his enterprise and for the wage earner to enjoy more of the wealth which he creates.

This discussion leads to the ultimate issue of this momentous campaign. I have talked of the public debt, but over and above debt is the blighting effect of the burden of tax which the New Deal lays upon the backs of the people.

Over and above this burden is the threat of inflation which lurks in our path a darker danger—the certainty that this road leads only to collapse, and to the tragic end of democratic institutions. The nation must choose. We can stand exposed to this chaos or we can preserve for ourselves and for our children a righteous order of free opportunity.

Is the American achievement only a memory of a great age, to be meditated upon by a decadent nation? That is the theory of the old world. It is the viewpoint of those who are in the President's councils. This European theory presupposes that we will create no additional wealth and that we are justified in a fight among ourselves over the division of wealth already created.

Liberality Is Needed

There is nothing liberal in such a theory. On the contrary it is in the most sordid sense reactionary. It shows an utter lack of faith in the people and would [illegible] to [illegible]

It assumes that the day of magnificent attainment is ended and everywhere that its baleful clutch lays hands on society it freezes the status of men, women and children.

It is the old world concept upon which castes are founded. This devastating philosophy restrains every good impulse and slams the door of opportunity in the face of every man who dares to aspire.

Americans can boast that heretofore, following every depression, our people have found the impetus to reorganize for greater attainment. They have declined to regard the country as bankrupt and the government as a receiver.

They have been free to plan the progress which has made America great. We must make known our purpose: That we will renounce this alien viewpoint, and we here and now proclaim the truth that America is yet free to build, to create and to prosper. We will again force recognition of the one great fact: that the most priceless privilege of citizenship under the American flag is the right to seek and obtain merited reward, unhampered, unrestrained and unafraid.

And now I ask the simple question—will America live or die? And I answer that America will live, because the people are firmly resolved that our nation shall not die. When have we ever tested the full measure of the people's strength? Not in 1775, save by the soldiers whose blood-stained tracks were left in the snow at Valley Forge. Not in 1863, except by those who dared to charge and those who dared to stand at Gettysburg. Nor was it tested in full in 1918, except by those who dared to die on the fields of France.

The full measure and depth of a great people's will is unknown, even to themselves. The secret lies hidden in the omnipotent mind of the Creator of all courage and all resolution. To Him let our prayers be offered that an aroused America casting out all doubt, will vindicate the faith of the fathers. We shall not falter, but in new found strength will hold high, in the splendor of a bright dawn, the banner of a nation's liberties.

LANDON BAND WAGON IS READY FOR BORAH

McNary, to wit: "I am for good money and lots of it" . . . A delegate walked into Landon headquarters and buttonholed the floorwalker there, saying: "After Landon is nominated, get him to catch an airplane and run out here, so that the delegates can see what he looks like" . . . An upstate New York congressman has been beating his fist on the platform makers' desk and predicting that the Republicans will lose his section unless they adopt the discarded Roosevelt commodity dollar theory. What they told him is that the rest of the country is larger than his section . . .

The main convention fun to date was watching the hide-and-seek chase of the platform makers by news-men. First the platform carpenters carefully locked an outlying club where they believed they would never be found. An enterprising local news-man published the location in headlines. The carpenters then moved on secretly to a hotel. They were discovered there within a few hours.

Then they tried to hide themselves in an exclusive downtown club, and pledged friendly newsmen on their honor, not to follow . . . A good estimate indicates that 80 per cent or more of these delegates never attended a convention before . . .

Ohio Oddities

In the northwest corner of Ohio there is a tier of counties, named in order from north to south—Williams, Defiance, Paulding and Van Wert. The names Williams, Paulding, and Van Wert were suggested by the man who captured Major Andre and who bore those names.

But years later the border region of Williams and Paulding became sufficiently populated to justify the organization of another county there and Defiance county was formed and named Defiance after old Fort Defiance which General Wayne had established where the city of Defiance grew up. This is why Defiance county breaks the original order, Williams, Paulding and Van Wert.

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET ELLI HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Hoping, dazed by defeat, the mystery which has surrounded Hope Devine from the night she married Rupert Jarvis after an hour's acquaintance, to the moment Rupert woke alone in her own room by her own brother, is being cleared up. Hope herself is explaining, and the man listening is Dirk Jarvis, Rupert's younger brother, who has never been able to get Hope out of his mind since he first saw her riding a black horse in a test race in New Jersey.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO
Untangled

DIRK remembered. Remembered Madame's mention of a pale girl—a fair girl. He said, "I remember." He had never thought of it again.

Torrobin said if you were a lawyer you weren't a safe prospect. Chow said yes, you were, because you were young. Young enough to be a fool. She gave him your name, said you lived in Winchester, and to look you up. She gave him Freddy Nevin's name, too. Natalie was certainly a talker. But Torrobin said lawyers were out. Said he'd like to get you, himself. Meaning about his nose.

"I went back to the van, and Olga, Pipolo's wife, was there. She said Pipolo had gone out to phone for an ambulance, that we must get Roddie to a hospital. We took him to Bellevue that night. He was still unconscious, and seriously hurt.

"I found your name in the phonebook. More than ever I wanted to see you, since I knew you were a lawyer. I knew that Roddie had to break away from Torrobin, whatever happened. I wanted to know about extradition laws; to know if—with only Torrobin's word as evidence—they could take Roddie out of New York and bring him down to Texas.

"Looking back now, seeing more clearly, I know Torrobin could have proved nothing without involving himself. He had used the money. But then—then I was frightened. I couldn't think. I wondered if they would take Roddie while he was ill.

"They said that Roddie would live—with an operation, and the right care. I wanted him to have everything. It would take money. Pipolo said he could get the money, would bring it to me. Monday night.

"The show was going to Atlantic City, and Pipolo and Olga were going with it in their trapeze act. But Pipolo would come back. Olga gave me some money that night, so that I could go to a hotel. They wouldn't let me stay at the hospital with Roddie.

"I didn't go to the hotel. Instead I found out where you lived, and came here to your home—came by subways and surface cars. It was a long trip. I thought I would never finish it. But I knew you would help me if I could find you.

"It was Rupert I found. I thought Chow had made a mistake. In my wild state I never thought there might be more than one Joris who was a lawyer. But he was a lawyer, he assured me of that. And since I had come so far ...I found though I couldn't tell him everything. It seemed I couldn't trust anybody with Roddie's secret...even Pipolo and Olga. I believe I could have trusted you. But that was before...

"Rupert questioned me about other things. I told him the truth in everything except my name. Even that was the truth. Hope is really my name, though I've never been called that. My father named me Lasca. You know 'Lasca?'

"...Lasca used to ride
On a mouse-gray mustang, close to my side,
With blue serape, and bright-belled spur...

"Cowboys like the poem. But my mother tucked in the name of Hope. I think Hope Devine is a ...It's embarrassing as a name. But I felt if Rupert knew my name—the name I was known by—he might be able to trace Roddie through it. He might...He wasn't himself that night. He might somehow give Roddie away—for I meant to tell him all I must to get advice.

* * *

"I couldn't think clearly, as I say. I only knew I was sorry Roddie was known as Roddy in the circus. Only then he was known as Roddie Torrobin. Every one assumed he was Torrobin's son. Only Olga and Pipolo knew he was not.

"Rupert wouldn't advise me, but he offered me a refuge. Such a refuge! It was like a door into heaven. Looking back, I see how silly my thoughts were. I thought he wanted me because he liked me.

"Of course I realized he barely knew what he was doing, but even so, I thought I could win him, make him love me, and Roddie would be safe. Roddie would have everything he needed...and with Rupert's influence and knowledge of the law...

"Later I realized how wrong it was to bring my troubles into your house, to make it yours and Rupert's. But then I was thinking only of myself and Roddie.

"And when you came home, and I saw you again—most of all when we sat together on the stair that night—I came near telling you everything. Something about you made me want to trust you, confide in you. Only I was too tired to straighten it out in my mind—to make it clear, I thought. Later.

"Early next morning I went to the hospital, and they let me see Roddie for just a minute. I told Mary I had been to church, and I had. There was a service at the hospital.

"I went and got my trunk, too, with the money Olga had lent me, and I telephoned Pipolo in Atlantic City. I told him where I was staying. Nothing more over the phone. He said he would meet me, as he promised, would send for me.

"He sent a taxi for me, a taxi owned by a friend of his. That was the night of 'The Black Swan.' I told him that night about my marriage—not how it had happened, only that I had married, and whom. Pipolo warned me not to let Torrobin know.

"Pipolo had sensed that Torrobin had some deadly hold on Roddie and me, and he feared, since I had married well, that he would try extortion of some sort.

"That was why I hadn't wanted it in the papers—my marriage, I mean. That was why I was glad I had used the name of Hope. Torrobin had never heard that name.

"Torrobin did not show up at the hospital while Roddie was there. He was probably nursing his bruised face. Pipolo—knowing I had a secret—asked me if I had made a clean breast of everything to Rupert, and when, I said no, he was troubled.

"I was troubled, too. It began to look as if marriage might not prove a solution. Yet Rupert seemed to want me to be happy, to be trying to please me. I still hoped I might win him.

"That night the taxi-driver thought some one was following us, and later he told Pipolo that a man came to his house and questioned him, accused him of wrecking his car. Pipolo supposed it was some scout of Torrobin's, but the description of the questioner sounded as if it might have been you. I couldn't believe it was you. But I began to be afraid. Afraid that Torrobin might have been to you with the truth about Roddie, and poisoned your mind against me."

* * *

Dirk laid an arm about her.

"And so you didn't confide in me?"

"I didn't dare. I didn't know what you might do, how you might feel. My whole thought was to get Roddie well, and away. I didn't need Pipolo's money that night, and I was able to pay back what Olga had given me. I had deposited my check from Rupert, and I had brought money for Roddie's operation, and care."

"You had money on you." Dirk said, "In addition to the jewels? I'd have been more worried still if I had known. It was I following you. I think you know my motives now. I had just got home, when you came to the gate and waved, and went off alone in a taxi, and later picked up a man..."

"Pipole," she said. "He was staying with his brother, Tony Fazzini. But I hadn't the jewels on. I had taken them off and given them to Rupert. All except the coronet, and it wasn't real. Roddie thought it was. It dazzled him. I knew it would."

She smiled. "So I kept it on, and the dress, too. I wanted Roddie to see them. I wanted him to see me all prosperous and happy—the last thing before he went under the ether. I was so afraid for him.

"That was why I had gone to church the day before, and prayed and prayed. I don't think I had ever prayed till then."

Hope explains the secret stair, tomorrow.

The display of work done by the women at the WPA sewing center on North State street will remain on public view at the Ohio-Penn Gas Co. store through Wednesday, and probably through Thursday.

Garments shown include boys' dresses, children's dresses, baby dresses, children's rompers, sewing garments, shirts and neckties. The display is being made in one of the east show windows.

Few, if any of the nearly 150 women who work at the center, had ever sewn before the center opened, according to the supervisor, Mrs. Jessie Crane. The display is being made by the supervisor to show the public the progress the women have made in their sewing and the high quality of articles which are made at the center. The clothing is distributed to Marion county relief families.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Pyelitis.

One who signs himself "A Constant Reader" has asked me to write on pyelitis, particularly as it affects the middle aged. I am glad to do this.

Pyelitis is a common infection of the kidneys. As its name indicates, the infection and inflammation are confined to the lower portion of the organ, to what is the pelvis of the kidney.

As a rule pyelitis can be traced to negligence. In many instances serious damage to the kidneys could have been prevented if proper precautions had been taken.

For example, the germs responsible for the infection may reach the kidneys from a center of infection within the body. By this is meant that infected organs such as the tonsils, adenoids, nasal sinuses, gall bladder, bad teeth, and other diseased structures, may be the place where the original cause of pyelitis actually resides. There they set up irritation and inflammation. This may explain the exceptionally high number of cases of pyelitis among children.

The victim of this infection complains of lack of "pep," loss of appetite, headache and a general feeling of weakness and uselessness. As the trouble progresses the symptoms become more marked. There may be constant fever. Nausea, vomiting and digestive disturbances are other signs.

The diagnosis is easily confirmed by a urinalysis. Examination of the urine reveals the bacteria, red blood cells, and pus cells. As a rule, the amount of urine is below normal and there is some pain or discomfort in one or the other kidneys. Sometimes there is some smarting or burning on urination.

In the acute form of pyelitis the patient should be put to bed. This is particularly important if fever is present, when under no circumstances should any activity be permitted. Sweating is encouraged, because this takes work off the damaged kidneys. The condition is aided by giving plenty of plain water, lemonade and alkaline bottled water.

The medical treatment should be directed by the family physician. Undoubtedly he will prescribe a liquid diet to be followed for several days. A urinary antiseptic is advised, but it should only be given upon the advice of the attending medical man.

Special tests should be conducted as soon as the acute attack has subsided. These should include kidney "function tests", blood studies and x-ray examination of the kidneys. The results of these examinations will determine what must be done to prevent later trouble.

Never neglect pyelitis, or any other disturbance of the kidneys. The organs involved are vital and should be protected against infection and disease.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Brixton, in Desperation, Asks Madge for Advice.

AS SAMUEL BRIXTON said that he supposed losing the Yale and Whitney Hall dances meant the end of the world for Marion. I felt the angry blood rushing to my face, for I fancied that his tone held something derogatory to Lillian's winsome young daughter whom, I love as well.

"If you think Marion was worried about her own pleasures being spoiled, you are utterly mistaken," I said. "She never would have asked me to come down for that. It was something else in the letter which frightened her terribly, and which I promised her solemnly I never would repeat to Ronald."

"I didn't mean any reflection on Marion," he said quickly. "Please don't be offended. I'm not responsible for what I'm saying. But can't you tell me what frightened her?"

Tells Suicide Threat

"I'm going to," I said. "It was just a sentence or two, and they may mean nothing. But there is a possibility involved which we all must consider. Here is what Ronald said."

I repeated the boy's statement, that it was ironic that he was worth more dead than alive, and his wish that he could collect upon his endowment policies now instead of waiting until he was thirty. Before I had finished, Samuel Brixton had flung his hands high in the air with a frenzied cry which seemed to be torn from his very heart. In alarm, I drew the car to the side of the boulevard and stopped. He dropped his arms and looked at me wildly.

"What are you stopping for?" he said. "Don't you see we must get up there as soon as we possibly can?"

"Then you must control yourself," I said sternly. "I do not dare to drive otherwise."

"I will, I will," he promised feverishly. "Only go on."

I started the car immediately and sent it along at the maximum speed permitted on the parkway. But there were few motorists on the road, and I was able to give attention to the problem confronting me.

Hopeless Outlook

It was one that was apparently baffling Samuel Brixton, for in a few moments he said hopelessly:

"The trouble is, I don't know what to do. It's all true. I'm at the end of my rope, but I didn't realize I had blabbed so much to Ronald. I didn't mean him to know everything until afterward, although I would have had to tell him some things today. But he must have read between the lines of what I did say, and realized the worst. What shall I do? What shall I do?"

"I may be able to tell you that," I said, "but only if you confide fully in me. First, will you tell me what you meant just now by that word 'afterward?'"

"I guess you know," he said at last. "What does a fellow mean when he's come to the end of his rope and there's nothing else left for his folks but his life insurance? Thank God! I've got enough of that so that Helena and the kids won't starve. They'll even be comfortable, and Ronald and Carolyn can finish college, though they won't have the luxuries I've always been so proud to give them.

Madge Gives Views

"No! don't want to think you can talk me out of it either," he said stubbornly, and I did not need to look at him to know that his lips were set in a thin grim line. "It's the only thing I can do for them. I'm too old to find anything new, but Ronald is young, with his life before him. He might use what I leave to take care of his mother and sister. Can't we go faster? Suppose we should be too late!"

"I am going as fast as I dare," I said, "and I'm only going to make one comment on what you have told me. Ronald has just as much right to get out of life as you have, and both your rights amount to exactly zero. I am judging Helena by myself, and by Lillian. Do you think she or Ronald or Carolyn would touch one penny of insurance which had cost your life? They would feel as I would under similar circumstances, that it was blood money. I can see where a woman with little children might be compelled to use insurance money in those circumstances," I rushed on, "but Ronald and Carolyn are of carning age. I think any one of the three, Helen, Carolyn and Ronald, would starve before they would touch your insurance if you carry out your present plan. Now I shall say nothing more on that score. But I simply had to tell you this, because I knew exactly how Helena would feel."

For two miles dead silence lay between us. But I could hear the heavy, almost panting breaths of the man beside me, and knew instinctively that he was fighting a battle with himself. Finally he said hoarsely:

"Will you swear that what you said just now was the truth, that you weren't saying it just to make me change my mind?"

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, June 11.

THERE MAY be much excitement and confusion on the day judging by the astral setup, as a result of an effort to launch new undertakings. These should be successful and prosperous but it will be necessary to be vigilant as to jealousy, duplicity and enmity. Be especially on guard in signing all writings and documents leaving no loopholes for fraud, misconstruction or slander. In the social or affectional life there may be disappointing friendships or blunders.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much fresh zest and excitement in the beginning of important projects. Unforeseen changes may be necessary but in all be cautious as to fraud, misunderstandings and enmities especially in connection with papers or writings.

A child born on this day may be energetic, bold and adventurous but it may have a subtle side to its nature. It should be popular and friendly socially.

Putting Them on Ice.

Last Saturday, when there were only 24 senators present in the chamber, Sen. Robert Wagner of New York attempted to have action taken upon, or preferred status given to, his administration-sponsored housing bill. When two quorum calls had revealed the low attendance, Majority Leader Robinson moved adjournment until Monday, at which time it was expected the senate would recess for at least a week on account of the Republican convention.

Sen. Wagner objected. Apparently he was even angered by the refusal to rush action on his pet bill. All of which is not unusual for the sponsor of a bill, particularly when spirited opposition is likely. What is more, Sen. Wagner's anger does remind one of the steam relief pressure that is put on congress in its closing days to pass every Tom, Dick and Harry's favorite bill.

Since the death of Speaker Byrns destroyed all chance of congress' adjourning before the Republican convention opened, those special pressure groups probably will put on the heat for passage of many pending measures. More's the pity. Many proposals, such as the chain store regulation and the housing bill, should not be railroaded through a congress which, irritated by one adjournment postponement, will have its eyes fixed on the calender and its hearts in home election districts.

Several such pending measures might well be put on ice until next January. When the icebox door is opened then at least some legislators might have recovered from election jitters and be able to view the proposals with a detachment that is not possible now.

Button Pressing.

A new high in inventiveness was reached when the fixed star Arcturus was employed for opening ceremonies at Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition. But Texas Democrats have gone Chicago one better. At the opening of the Dallas world's fair, a sentence spoken by Secretary of Commerce Roper was flashed around the world and returned to the main gate of the exposition and by electrical impulse closed scissors which cut a ribbon and formally started proceedings.

Probably it's too late to suggest that the Republicans might have opened their rally by pressing a button releasing gas strong enough to asphyxiate all Democrats and leave them comatose until after November. Maybe the new dealers could seize upon the idea and add an alphabetical fireworks display for good measure.

Or—since the Democrats are sticking to their open air notification ceremonies—a button pusher at Franklin field might release a current of enthusiasm which would be maintained throughout the campaign and not relent to electrocute its sender at the finish of the circuit. Or the WCTU, convening in Tulsa next Friday, might touch off a series of mines designed to blow all breweries into the ether.

Possibilities are endless—and it's not reasonable to hope they won't be exploited to the full.

Making Reservations.

Although 150,000 northern coal miners have just declared a general strike, it appears that the wave of strikes which flooded over France has ceased. The accord reached makes resumption of work contingent upon negotiation of contracts between individual employers and employes and numerous disputes still are expected. Labor circles believe, however, the majority of the strikers will go back to work by the middle of the week.

A glance at the terms of the accord gives the impression that the workers won a smashing victory. Concessions made were increase of wages, recognition of rights to organize, collective bargaining contracts, 40 hour week and vacations with pay.

Under pressure from the government, employers finally agreed to all these terms and signed the accord. But in so doing they warned the triumphant leftist ministry they made reservations concerning the economic consequences of this settlement. There, perhaps, is the rub. Apparently the workers have gained the day. Yet as time and economic forces run their course, employers may find they cannot live up to the agreement and stay in business. If they are bankrupted or financially crippled, the strikers' victory will be a hollow one.

At least the striking miners should consider those reservations of the employers before they try to wrest a golden shower of promises from the Blum government.

Ohio G. O. P. Strengthened.

Selection of Frank F. (Dick) Taggart of Massillon as Republican national committeeman to succeed Walter F. Brown of Toledo is a detail of party organization which gains unusual importance by reason of political circumstances.

Mr. Brown has lost much of his usefulness as a unifying force among Ohio Republicans, due largely to the fact he has been living in New York. He was identified, furthermore, with a political era which is past and gone now.

Mr. Taggart, cooperating with State Chairman Ed Schorr, will be more valuable to the Republican party in Ohio than Mr. Brown was able to be under the circumstances. The party will be able to develop a greater cohesiveness and energy under the new setup.

In politics a great deal of talking is done about harmony and cooperation. Here is a specific instance in which both harmony and cooperation have been furthered by a realignment of political forces. As a result, Ohio Republicans will be able to enter the campaign with excellent prospects of success for both the state and national tickets.

In Cleveland this week there is an atmosphere of optimism. Republicans are encouraging each other with their obvious confidence and determination to muster the party's old time strength. The G. O. P. has regained the spirit it lacked in 1932, with something to spare.

The Ohio organization has displayed impressive ability to muster its full force for the campaign. The prospects are distinctly good.

"Invasion and Infringement."

Some commentators have tried to remain calm as they put relief administration under their microscopes. They have asserted the problem can not be solved by the mere assertion that administration should be turned back to the states. They have pointed out there is no assurance state or local politicians would bring to the work any higher sense of ethics than that shown by federal employes. They have, even, gone so far as to suggest federal jurisdiction can be justified so long as the funds are coming from Washington.

Yet such commentators may well be disturbed by news from Pennsylvania that federal authorities have secured an order restraining state senators from investigating the WPA administration in that state. Asserting that such investigation would "constitute an invasion and infringement of and interference with the operation of the government of the United States," federal attorneys have succeeded in halting the state inquiry at least until an injunction hearing is held June 12.

In view of the consistency with which Mr. Hopkins and his aids have denied charges of political abuses within relief administration and have urged critics to lodge specific complaints with them, friendly observers can not but question the apparent high handedness of government officials in Pennsylvania. They might be reassured if they were convinced that the hearing was going to be in the nature of a round table at which charges would be made and investigated. Instead, it appears that at the meeting June 12 federal authorities will seek to obtain a permanent injunction against the state inquiry.

Maybe They're Related.

Probably there is no connection between two news stories—one originating in London and the other in Singapore Straits Settlements—but the possibility of their being related fascinates one.

The London born story, for instance, tells that Great Britain will default outright on its $85,670,765 debt payment due the United States June 15. From Singapore come the reports that within eight years the British have converted a vast area of jungle and swamp into the world's most powerful naval base at a cost of $75,000,000.

Announcement of the debt default was expected while building of the naval base is not surprising. Persons given to speculation, however, will toy with the idea of connecting the two stories. They will realize it took eight years to build the base and that one year's debt payment exceeds the cost of the naval project. They might go on to wonder, however, whether the already powerful British navy couldn't have managed without that extra base, especially since it was built only for "defense purposes."

They might as well continue to wonder. Meanwhile Uncle Sam, who is doing quite a bit of defense building himself, will understand Great Britain's position as he enters a "not paid" notation in his ledger.

Progressive Note in G. O. P. Platform

Document Drafted by Committee Including Gov. Landon's Advisers Resembles Reform Movement.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

CLEVELAND, O., June 10—The finished draft of the Republican platform, which has been put before the resolutions committee by a group of advisers including representatives of Gov. Landon—who seems certain to be presidential nominee—is a progressive document.

What the draft will look like when the resolutions committee gets through with it is something else again. Two objections of a major character will arise. Some will argue that the proposed platform is too long—it is about 2,300 words now—and others will say that it does not express itself sufficiently on a variety of questions that have in them vote-getting strength next November.

Basically, the platform could be abbreviated considerably to include fundamental principles, and the hundred and one subjects of current legislation would conform to those principles. While the pressure to be specific on certain points is always intense, yet it is doubtful if the platform finally adopted omits consideration of anything that is likely to be a campaign issue.

• • •

The three planks which are giving most trouble relate to the gold standard, agriculture and minimum wages. The planks on social security and old age pensions are in satisfactory form already. The farm plank will cause controversy. It cannot from the viewpoint of the leaders here, escape the fact that cash benefits are for the time being necessary, but at the same time all plans on methods of aiding agriculture are supposed to come within the financial ability of the federal government to meet the expenses.

It would not be surprising if the farm plank took into account the emergency situation in world agricultural conditions rather than a permanent policy.

As for the monetary plank, here, too, the unsettled conditions throughout the world make it inadvisable to write a formula into a platform plank. What is being urged is a declaration in favor of international stabilization of currencies, leaving the American government free to deal with the situations as they arise and not requiring any fixed gold content until there is some kind of international agreement. Producers of farm commodities would be protected against any adverse effects of such fixing of the gold content.

The minimum wage issue is perplexing because it has acquired embarrassments of Republican origin. Herbert Hoover's pronouncement in favor of a minimum wage amendment to the federal Constitution so as to add power to the state governments to deal with the matter has impressed Gov. Landon. Senator Borah, on the other hand, doubts that any amendment is necessary. Likewise union labor does not want any wage fixing if it is to apply to men as well as women.

Altogether to define exactly what is a minimum wage is one thing because it has to be related to the value of the services rendered, whereas a subsistence income based wholly on the desire of the state to prevent a citizen—man or woman—from becoming a public charge is quite another proposition. It would be possible under the already existing police power of a state to enact a statute that prohibits any individual from accepting employment at less than a subsistence income of a standard fixed by a state commission but this would mean authority derived from the power of a state to prescribe for the health of its citizens and to prevent the financial burden of the state itself from becoming excessive.

The task is to draw an amendment that does not become enmeshed in the tangles of wage-fixing at all but seeks to establish a subsistence level from a humanitarian standpoint. The argument is that no constitutional amendment is necessary, but the platform makers are being urged to agree to recommend that such an amendment to the Constitution be adopted if it should later be found necessary.

On foreign affairs there is little likelihood of disagreement, as the purpose is to keep America free from entanglement that might lead to war.

Aside from the platform-making, the feature of the moment is the way the delegations, one by one, are cleaning house. Some of the leaders of the past being deposed are not sufficiently progressive and some have just worn out their welcome in state politics. On the whole, the desire to renovate the party organization is taking on the proportions of a crusade. Certainly the Landon campaign is becoming a reform movement in Republican national politics.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, June 10, 1926.

The Marion Short Ship race meet which had been scheduled to run throughout the week was called off suddenly primarily as a result of authorities having stopped the selling of pools.

Richard Whittemore, Maryland youth whose lurid career as a bandit and killer was climaxed by his conviction for the slaying of Robert H. Holman, Maryland prison guard, was sentenced to death.

W. W. Durbin of Kenton was elected president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians at its annual convention in Kenton. Harry Blackstone of Ceylon, Mich., was elected vice president.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were leading the National league with 27 games won and 19 lost. New York led the American league with 26 won and 14 lost and Milwaukee the American association with 34 won and 17 lost.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 10, 1916.

The Republican national convention adjourned in Chicago after nominating Charles Evans Hughes of New York for president and Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana for vice president. Hughes was nominated on the third ballot with the vote standing Hughes 949½, Roosevelt 191½, Lodge 7, DuPont 5, Weeks 3, and LaFollette 3 and absent one.

It was announced that the Knights of Pythias of Marion would enter the contest at the state convention in Cleveland the following week in an effort to have the 1917 convention brought to Marion.

A group of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Vaughan gave them a surprise party at their home on Mark street in celebration of their eighth wedding anniversary.

William Sterling, 32, of Columbus was killed when he fell beneath the wheels of a Hocking Valley freight train in the Marion yards.

Behind the News

Spotlight Turned on Cleveland Q. O. P. Convention.

BY PAUL MALLON

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 — Watch for Senator Borah to edge closer and closer to the Landon camp. The sentries have slipped him the password and Landon soldiers have been bearing him inviting gifts.

It will be a sad surprise to them and to everybody else if the Lone Wolf from Idaho does not get all that Landon possibly can give in the way of platform and other concessions and then show up at the Landon campfire at a dramatic moment. The Landonites have even dusted off a conspicuous place on the rostrum in expectation of a ringing Borah speech.

Such a convention climax has been in the cards for just about two weeks, despite all surface indications to the contrary.

Keynote

The Steiwer keynote was not entirely a personal expression of the Oregon senator's views. No less than ten to fifteen persons had an actual hand in the writing of it and no less than 40 to 50 party leaders contributed their views. These are safe and conservative inside estimates.

The confidential advance text was carefully guarded even from news men until 4:30 p. m. Wise convention publicity men wanted to keep the Democrats from finding out what was in it. So nothing could be done immediately to offset its effect. But that is not the only reason it was held back.

The truth is the printers completed work on it only an hour earlier. Two insertions were rushed to them at the last moment. One was the line about no foreign entanglements, which was generally recognized as a bow to Borah. The other was the promise to abolish monopolies, which was a deeper bow in the same direction.

Spirit

William Allen White is a political philosopher. He thinks Charlie Hilles is a person. Mr. Hilles is a practical politician. He thinks White is visionary.

The two were out to a lawn party here. White hung around alone and Hilles stood, unbending, at the opposite edge.

Finally Hilles strolled over to White, draped an arm across his shoulder and said:

"Bill, I guess we are the only two of the Old Guard left."

That typifies the inner situation of the Republican convention as well as anything. White, Landon counselor, and Hilles, the eastern politician, are on speaking terms for possibly the first time in their lives. They are both on the edge of the convention grass giving way to a fresh generation of Republican leaders but at the same time drawn together themselves by circumstances. They are the elder veterans of old strife, able to look at the past and the future objectively.

New Order

The "Youth Movement" taking control of the Republicans here is not exactly what popular term implies. It is not an insurgency, or a revolution of inexperienced but youthfully enthused men. It is rather an evolution, bringing to the top not youthful, but middle-aged business and professional men who are new to politics but not to the ways of the world.

You can see the exact tone of the movement behind what has happened within the Ohio and Illinois delegations since they arrived.

The national committeeman from each state generally represents the character of the dominant faction within that state. In Illinois the old one was Frank Smith, the man who was denied a senate seat because Insull contributed heavily to his primary campaign. He was voted out of his national committee chair and in his place the delegation installed George F. Harding, a highly successful business man who has played around in politics only as an avocation.

The old Ohio committeeman was Walter F. Brown, a relic of the Hoover era of party domination, the postmaster general of the Hoover cabinet, a political scout master. In his place was chosen Frank F. Taggart, banker and coal man from Massillon.

The newcomers certainly are not babes in the woods. What they are bringing to the new order is business judgment and the business way of doing things.

Skill

Political technicians admired John Hamilton's advance handling of the convention delegates. The secret of his success, they say, was that two weeks ago he started calling chairmen of the state delegations on long distance telephone almost daily. In that way he found out what they were thinking about long before the convention assembled. The founder of the telephone line-up technique was the Harding manager, Will Hays, which may partly account for the fact that insiders here are already saying that Hamilton will prove himself to be the smartest national chairman since Hays.

Notes

The briefest money plank here is the unofficial one originated long ago by Senate Republican Leader

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, June 10.—For many years Fannie Brice has seldom appeared in a stage or cinema part without the cast including her personal jester, Roger Davis. He can inspire the comedienne to an hilarity that often sends her shrieking to the seclusion of a restroom in cafe or cabaret.

Aside from being in Miss Brice's shows, he is usually included in her evenings out. That his talent for humor is best appreciated by her is illustrated by his portrayal of very insignificant bits and none that provokes more than a thin audience smile.

He is a Buster Keaton dead-pan-looking fellow whose comedy is often expressed by entering a room with his toupee sidewise. All his clowning is of enormous exaggeration, the broad sweep of burlesque of the days of Sliding Billy Watson and Snuffy the Cab Driver.

Davis, a bachelor, is not only a favorite of Miss Brice's but is generally popular with ladies of the musical chorus. In the flush days of the Ziegfeld Follies no after-the-play party was considered a success without his unsmiling help in buzzahing dawn with a hiccup.

• • •

Edith Wharton is considered the No. 1 patrician among the literati. Although she has been self exiled in Paris for a number of years, she is eagerly welcomed by the top drawer set, not only in the French capital, but in London, Berlin and New York. Despite personal familiarity with all the fashionables, however, she is without a whisper of swank in her appearance, contact or art. She can write of a shabby restaurant in Soho so that one may not only catch the skillet's aromas but feel the sawdust under feet. And yet a lady to the longnette born.

• • •

Ben Bernie's tonal inflections over the radio along with his lingual gradations from "a bit of tweet tweet" to "yowsah" have convinced radio reaction appraisers that it is not so much any more what is said, but how. Bernie has slowly, perhaps, but steadily, grown in popularity, mostly through such devices. The bugaboo of the radio artist's career is monotony of voice. As he cannot be seen, a sameness causes an abandonment in the manner of a phonographic record.

• • •

William Lyon Phelps, in his customary summery raiment and with his dangling umbrella, continues to be the only critic of the drama who waits for a show to jell before reviewing it and who appraises the Rialto offerings only at matinees. He comes down from New Haven for the performances and arrives home in time for dinner. Incidentally, I was thinking today of the death toll among critics since my time here—Metcalfe of Life, Renold Wolf, Alan Dale, Charles Darnton, Charles Pike Sawyer, Robert Welch and Percy Hammond.

• • •

I like to watch the brisk belt coated, barbered and brassy boys who pop into Times Square about Final Edition time. Calloused cadgers, they even cheat the news dealers by brazenly looking over a paper to see who won the last at Pimlico. The present tense talkers who clip out a few words and leave the rest of the sentence dangling with a "you know." They order a cup of coffee where celebrities gather—Lindy's, Dempsey's, Dinty Moore's and such—and wait for the proper opening to crash the party. Frequently they duck into telephone booths. This is required ritual. For ladies who pay and pay must know!

The Word of God

THE MIND OF CHRIST: Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men.—Philippians 2:5, 6, 7.

TODAY — Landon News All Good News.

From Cleveland when this was written, late yesterday, came "good news for Gov. Landon." friend and supporter, Herb Langworthy of Kansas City, chosen chairman of the resolutions committee, which means presumably, that the Landon forces will write the platform. No one of delegates will be made tomorrow, at the earliest.

Landon supporters yesterday claimed between 470 and 500 gates sure for the Kansas governor, and only 502 are necessary for nomination.

Gov. Landon's friends predict his "nomination on the first lot," but nothing is sure in politics; some "favorite sons" postpone the final decision they have had a chance to prove that they really are "favorites."

Miss Peggy Ann, Gov. Landon's 20-year-old daughter, in Cleveland with her grandfather, told reporters, "I always wanted to be at a convention. I thought this would be as good a time as any." She was right about that.

Gov. Landon spent the morning working in the Capitol building at Topeka, Kan.; did not turn the radio to "listen in on Cleveland." That must have been difficult, even for the most busy man like governor.

Story of Revenge

Melbourne, Australia, sends a strange story of a dying man's vengeance. A white trapper was found in his lonely camp, killed by many spear wounds; and with him were the dead bodies of seven natives that murdered him.

Bleeding to death, but determined, the white man crawled back to his camp and mixed some of the camp food—flour, tea, sugar—with a can of strychnine which he kept to poison wild dogs.

He died and the murderous natives, following the blood trail, all died beside him, after swallowing the strychnine. As part of a moving picture, that would be improbable, but it happened. Desire for vengeance is one ingredient of human nature. Theoretically, the white man should have forgiven the natives and cooked supper for them before dying, but he preferred poison them.

Woman's Hour

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church whom this writer, never a Christian Scientist, had the honor of knowing quite well, said more than once, "This is woman's hour."

She might be pleased to know that a woman, Mrs. Ella Cadwell Tomlinson, has been chosen president of the Christian Science mother church in Boston, succeeding a man.

Mrs. Eddy, interested in all such effort, would be interested to know that when the rowing crew of New York's Manhattan college was beaten by Rollins college the coxswain of the Rollins crew, "Stearns, age 21, height 5 feet 2 inches, weight 110," was Miss Stearns, a Rollins co-ed. Her "woman's hour" for her, and a surprise for the Manhattan crew.

Texas is Big

President Roosevelt starts his "one-week" visit to the south including Texas; going, he says, "not on politics, but to see the country looks like." He will not keep to his one-week schedule if he visits, at Dallas, the Centennial Exposition celebrating the hundredth anniversary of Texas freedom from Mexican rule.

You should include that magnificent exposition in your plans this Summer. No American can have any clear idea of the bigness of his country until he has seen Texas, biggest thing in it.

Last Chapter

The last chapter in the Hauptmann murder and kidnaping mystery is written with the return of Col. Lindbergh of $14,665 in gold notes New Jersey as evidence against Hauptmann.

All those dollars, part of the ransom for the murdered baby, were found in Hauptmann's garage, except one $10 gold certificate. That bill, used by Hauptmann in a careless moment to buy gasoline, sent him to the electric chair. The gas station attendant wrote down the number of Hauptmann's car. Murderers often betray themselves.

Try Carrots

Scarcity of potatoes has housewives. They cost 5 cents for five pounds, as against 25 cents last year. The new crop will reduce prices in a month or so. Meanwhile, those to whom potatoes makes a difference might advantageously accustom themselves to other vegetables, including carrots, of which too few are eaten.

The Last Laugh

In this world, many laugh but few do things. Fulton Sr. would run a boat up the Hudson river by steam; crowds came to laugh.

When it was suggested in this century that men would fly, successfully, millions laughed.

Had it been suggested that an army officer would cross the continent "flying blind" in an airplane cabin, seeing nothing, guided by scientific "radio beam," the laughter would have been louder: Yet that is what Maj. Baker, of the army air corps, has just done. And I should say now that giant ships will fly around this earth, in the stratosphere, above clouds and storms, carrying thousands of passengers, dropping them at their destinations in smaller ships. "around the world in 50 hours or less," there would be more laughter, but it would be the last laughter. What men imagine they can do, and more.

Cincinnati Wallops Giants, 15-4; Indians Defeated

WHOLESALE UPSETS HIT NATIONAL LOOP; CARDS STRETCH LEAD

Tigers Trounce Red Sox 8-4 as Cochrane Heads for Detroit Hospital

By The Associated Press

Outdoing even the dizziness of such of its component parts as the Deans and Casey Stengels Brooklyn beauties the National league is putting on one of the daffiest races the big league has seen in years

Strange as it seems the St. Louis Cardinals who stretched their lead yesterday to 4½ games by finishing on top of the Boston Bees 7-5 appear the only group untroubled so far by the wholesale turnover

An explosion hit the rest of the pack and switched their lineup 100 per cent The Pittsburgh Pirates pulled up all the way from fourth place to a tie with the slipping New York Giants in second on the strength of a double header win over the Dodgers Jim Weaver pitched seven hit ball to take the opener 4-1 and the Pucs piled all over the Brooklyn ace Van Lingle Mungo in the first two innings to capture the nightcap 7-5

The Giants meanwhile were getting belted on all sides by the Cincinnati Reds with a 15-4 victory This boosted the Reds into fifth place turning sixth over to the Bees Just to make the changes unanimous the Phillies although they lost to the Cubs 6-5 through Roy Henshaw's air tight pitching climbed out of the cellar

The American league was more or less serene so far as any switches in the standings went

The last-place Browns handed the pace-setting New York Yankees a 5-3 setback Elon Hogsett limiting the considerably off form murderers row to five hits The Tigers turned on the Boston Red Sox 8-4 just before their ailing manager Mickey Cochrane left to return to Detroit for observation which may lead to an operation The Senators took advantage of the sliding Cleveland Indians and won a 2-1 pitchers duel with Pete Appleton the four hit victor

The Athletics dropped to within one game of the cellar when their pitching weakened in the tenth inning and let the White Sox push across three runs for a 5-2 win

25-Cent Putter Pet Of Walker Cup Golfer Who Owns 70 Clubs

Walker Cupper Walter Emery of Oklahoma and front rank recognition with the 2-bit putter shown above

By The Associated Press

NORMAN Okla.—A dilapidated aluminum putter bought for 25 cents at a miniature golf course several years ago is the pet weapon of Walter Emery University of Oklahoma law student who won a Walker cup team berth with his magic putting touch

It means more to the former intercollegiate champion than all the 70 other clubs he owns

The ancient putter enabled him to breeze through the intercollegiates to the title at Buffalo N Y in 1933 That same summer Emery was four up on Jack Westland through the morning 16th of the Western amateur semi-finals at Memphis—then he three-putted seven greens and lost the match

Hankinson who is Emery's Roswell lost his temper and smashed the capricious pet putter against a tree Emery patched it up and has refused ever since to use any other The cracked and crooked shaft must be taped before every match to prevent the head from rattling too much

Emery has another pet a non descript niblick and he can't remember where or when he acquired it His two pets stick out like sore thumbs among the 18 matched steel-shafted irons and woods that comprise the Emery artillery

Emery was runnerup to Lawson Little in the 1935 national amateur

Schmeling doesn't appear scared of Louis reputation and he doesn't talk about the Brown Bomber but his timing looked too slow and his defense works far too people to hold any definite chance to score one of boxings most startling upsets with a victory over the new scourge of fight

Clipping a 16-1 defeat on the Marion Steam Shovel entry in the city's new All Star night league the Moores & Ross outfit last night registered its first victory under the lights at Lincoln park It was the first complete night game for the running squad its league opener with the Elks last week having been halted by rain

Prior to the game under the floodlights softball fans last night saw three twilight contests The Epworth Bishops team held its commanding lead over entries in the Sunday School League No 2 by edging a 4-3 victory over the St Mary team Wesley's aggregation went on a scoring spree and blanked Calvary 28-0 and Christian defeated United Brethren 10-2

Two twilight contests and a game under the floodlights await fans tonight In the night encounter the Axe Funeral Home outfit will play the K of P team in a league game at Lincoln park at 8 30 The twilight games both continuations of previous games which ended in tie scores will match Lee Street with Epworth No 1 on Marion Steam Shovel field and the Lawrence Markets with the Shovel team on President field Both twilight contests will start at 6 15

After scoring two runs in the opening inning last night the Moores & Ross aggregation took advantage of 10 walks and four errors to shove in a grand total of 14 runs in the fourth inning The heavy scoring outfit collected 4 hits one of them a homer by Somerlot in the big inning which spelled defeat for their opponents

Three M S S hurlers allowed a total of 14 walks and fanned six batters High spots of the team's playing was a double by Jones M S S third sacker and two double plays executed Corrigan to Ballinger to Andrews and Ceasap to Pobier Weiss went the route as the winning hurler He permitted only two hits the double by Jones and a single by Ballinger

With errorless fielding Wesley slammed out 23 hits and accounted for 25 runs to blank the Calvary team in a twilight game on President field yesterday Six Calvary errors and clever base running by the victorious nine resulted in the lopsided score It required a final inning spurt for the undefeated Epworth Bishops to overtake the strong St Mary team Trailing 3 to 1 as they came to bat in the last of the seventh the Bishops rally followed a triple by Bud Cram Mautz and Salter singled and Lewis doubled before St Mary was able to halt the rally which gave the Bishops their fourth consecutive victory and lowered St Mary to third place tie with Wesley

A big first inning in which the Christian team scored 6 runs proved too much for the opposing United Brethren aggregation The Christians added three runs in the third and scored again in the sixth while the Brethren were content with only two markers scored in the fourth and seventh The defeated team nicked Gilmore for nine bingles while the winning team managed to get but 10 hits off B Everly Five United Brethren errors gave the Christians numerous scoring possibilities which they used to their advantage

STOCKS CLIMB ON JERKY TRAIL

Rails Lead in Demand but Profit Taking Dampens Whole List's Ardor.

NEW YORK, June 10—Selected stocks today rode ahead on a rather pumpy market trail.

Buyers had some appetite left for scattered rails, utility merchandise and specialty issues, but profit-taking even restrained the advancing tendencies of these. Other groups just about stood still or back-tracked. The activity lessened on realizing.

Gainers of fractions to a point or so, near the start of the fourth hour, included Santa Fe, New York Central, Electric Power & Light, American Water Works, North American, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Gimbel, Johns-Manville, du Pont, J. I. Case, American Woolen preferred and Transamerica.

The motors had a brief upward flurry, but it failed to hold. The alcohols were heavy, U. S. Industrial dropping more than a point. American Telephone, Westinghouse, Kennecott and Anaconda eased. Air Reduction came to bat with a 50-cent extra, but the stock was inactive and lower.

Rail bonds improved. Commodities and foreign currencies did little.

The steel shares were unresponsive to the U. S. Steel Corp. statement showing shipments for May were up 4,190 tons over the April aggregate which was the best since 1930.

The flow of favorable dividends was unabated. Transamerica, holding more than 99 per cent of the Bank of America of San Francisco, was the principal beneficiary of the 50-cent special disbursement voted by the latter.

STATE COURT RULES IN MARION SUIT

New Trial Granted Mrs. Burtch in Damage Action

The state supreme court today granted Mrs. Grace A. Burtch of Marion a retrial of her damage suit against the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Columbus.

Mrs. Burtch seeks $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly suffered when she stumbled on a furnace register in one of the company's stores in Marion and fell.

When the suit was tried in common pleas court here, the court directed a verdict in favor of the company. Mrs. Burtch carried the case to the Third district court of appeals which reversed the lower court and ordered retrial of the case.

The Kroger company asked the state supreme court to hear its appeal in the case, but the court, in ruling today, refused to have the case certified for a review.

The case, attorneys said, will come back to common pleas court in Marion for a new trial.

Z. F. Davis is attorney for Mrs. Burtch and J. C. A. Arter is counsel for the Kroger company.

TIFFIN MINISTER IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Rev. Paul Hollingshead Tells Luncheon Club To Keep Up With Their Times.

Rev. Paul Hollingshead, pastor of St. Paul M. E. church of Tiffin, addressed members of the Marion Rotary club at their weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at Hotel Harding.

Rev. Hollingshead took as his topic, "The Art of Being Contemporaneous." He urged his listeners to "be alive" and abreast with the times. Declaring it is difficult to do this, the speaker pointed out the virtual impossibility of being "up to date" on all phases of living. Rev. Hollingshead said that authors of today and in past years have projected their "heroes" into other eras and scenes not actually familiar to them, thus taxing their imaginations.

Visitors at yesterday's luncheon were M. L. Howell of Tiffin, Paul Hunt, Paul Piersol, Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., Lieut. Richard Lawson and Ivan R. Barnhart of Green Camp.

Gene Hill has been selected as the Marion delegate to the annual Rotary convention at Atlantic City, opening June 22.
